Down Goes the Pound
Comfort for Mr. Capone
Belief in God Protects
When Girls Are Baffled

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Much excitement, in Paris, especially, about the sudden drop in British sterling as compared with French francs. The French believe that the British no longer mean to hold up the value of the pound, and fear that Britain and the United States will begin "a cheap money" competition, disastrous to those that remain proudly on the gold standard.

If United States and Britain moneys are cheap the world will buy from Britain and the United States, rather than from countries with dear money.

This is further confirmation of the statement that nobody knows anything about money. The world can only guess, as events develop.

Mr. Al Capone, able in his line, is indignant, his lawyers almost weep because Mr. Capone, in the dead of night, is transferred from the peaceful prison of Atlanta, Georgia, to the rock prison of Alcatraz Island, where the government keeps its "most desperate prisoners."

Mr. Capone, who says he has been "a model prisoner, as all his guards will testify," may be comforted by the suggestion that our government sees in him some resemblance to Napoleon Bonaparte. Napoleon was a model prisoner on the Island of Elba, but did not stay there long, and, when he came back, made considerable trouble.

The British transferred him to St. Helena, a rocky, distant island, like Alcatraz, only more so. And there Napoleon stayed till he died, his corpse coming back in triumph, to be buried in Paris.

At Bridgeton, N. J., scene of unpleasant strikes, "Communist activities" are investigated, Donald J. Henderson, formerly instructor at Columbia University, and his wife being witnesses.

When they admitted that they were Communists the investigating lawyer asked each one "Do you believe in God?" Mrs. Henderson said she did not believe in a "personal" God. Her husband said: "I do not believe in the God you do—but, I believe in God."

Defenders of property right maintain that to believe in God is essential to good citizenship, but strangely it doesn't matter what particular god.

If Mrs. Henderson said "we believe in an African god called mumbo-jumbo" or "we believe in Buddha," or 'Allah and his prophet Mohammed," or "we believe in being parsee," that would have been satisfactory.

And that is reasonable, easily understood, on the theory that if you believe in mumbo-jumbo or any other god, you probably believe also that you will go to Hell if you take somebody else's property. If you don't believe in mumbo-jumbo, or Allah or Buddha, or some supernatural power, you may conclude that there is no Hell, in which case, as a matter of course, you would steal everything possible or even divide the property of the rich among the poor.

Young ladies of Hungary, as all can testify who have sailed down the Danube and visited Budapest, are beautiful, and temperamental. So temperamental in fact as to make Lupe Velez, Dolores Del Rio, and 100 female American Hollywood temperaments rolled into one seem mild and cold.

Imagine this. Girls from 12 to 18 years of age at Rakospalota forbidden to leave school to see their soldier-sweethearts suddenly developed "mass hysteria" and expressed their disappointment by swallowing objects of all sorts, teaspoons, toothbrushes, everything they could force down their throats. Some are dying.

The most excitable man is mild compared to a baffled young lady with her affections involved. Mass hysteria among females is a very ancient phenomenon, hard to handle. A mild case once developed in a New York lying-in hospital when experiments were made with "twilight sleep."

Mr. Bernard S. Deutsch, president of New York's board of aldermen, visiting Mexico, learned, like the man, his son, and the donkey in the old fable, that it is hard to please everybody.

Mr. Deutsch in Mexico City praised everything. Mexico was a wonderful country, and he was glad to say on the authority of high officials that the anti-Jewish movement in Mexico amounted to nothing.

THREE MEN GET CASH EN ROUTE TO BANK

By Associated Press

Butler, Pa., Aug. 24—Currency estimated by postal authorities at $50,000 was taken from a mail truck today by three armed men, who fled in an automobile.

The money, postal authorities said, was being sent by registered mail from the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank to the Lyndora National Bank at Lyndora, near Butler.

State police said the robbers stopped the mail truck driven by Milton C. Lackey on Butler street. Pointing revolvers at him, they grabbed three mail pouches, ran back to their car and sped away. The car was found abandoned a short time later. It bore an Ohio license.

Lackey, who has a contract for carrying mail in Butler and outlying towns, had left the postoffice a short time before the robbery and was en route to Lyndora.

Postoffice workers first heard of the robbery when an unidentified woman appeared at a stamp window and shouted:

Postal inspectors began making a check but outside the Lyndora shipment could make no estimate of the value of the rest of the mail. Several parcels were registered, however.

Inspectators explained it is customary to send large sums of currency by registered mail to the Lyndora bank, which is affiliated with the Butler County National bank.

GEMS STOLEN IN LYNN HOME

Theft of $5000 in jewelry was reported by Lynn police today in a daylight burglary at the home of Herbert H. Winslow of 190 Ocean street, the fashionable Diamond Hill district of Lynn.

The home of Winslow, vice-president of the Benz Leather Company of Lynn, was entered late yesterday in the absence of the family and the maid, but police disclosed the burglary only today.

Ten pieces of jewelry, including a platinum bar pin, set with three diamonds and valued at $2000, a diamond and sapphire dinner ring and a pearl brooch, each valued at $1000, comprised the loot.

Solid silver table service and valuable silks and clothing were not taken by the burglars, although the house was ransacked, apparently in search for money or more jewelry.

Mrs. Winslow, with a house guest, Mrs. Ruth Morse of New York, was out shopping, and the maid, Miss Christine Nevins, had gone out for a walk with the children.

Queen Wilhelmina Ordered to Rest

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 24 (AP)—Queen Wilhelmina, who is in Norway with Princess Juliana, was ordered by a court physician today to take a complete rest for several days. It is understood the Queen is distraught over the recent deaths of Queen Mother Emma and Prince Consort Henry.

Hospital Robbed of $1001 Payroll as Baby Is Born

During excitement attendant on birth of a baby at Cambridge Relief Hospital early today, thieves broke into the hospital office and stole $1001 from the desk of Dr. Edward Bolton, the superintendent.

Dr. Bolton was counting the money in his office for the employes' payroll when he was summoned to the delivery room to usher a baby girl into the world.

The superintendent placed the bills and envelopes back in a wallet, locked it away in a drawer of his desk and hurried to the hospital room upstairs.

He was away about 20 minutes and during that time thieves had gained entrance through a side window, ransacked the office and escaped with the loot.

The baby, innocent aid to the thieves, is the child of a fisherman's wife. The father is away at sea and does not know yet he is a father.

The parents of the new baby are Mr. and Mrs. John Summers of Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

Police, working on the theory that a former employe who had been discharged was responsible for the theft, took finger prints on the window sill and began a check-upon discharged workers.

Sergeant Detectives Edwin J. Mahr and James M. Landrigan of the Central Square police division are conducting the investigation.

Doctor Bolton told the police he thought more than one man was responsible for the job because of the construction of the hospital. He pointed out that in order to reach his office in the hospital, which is raised on its foundation, a man would need assistance.

DILLINGER AID KILLED IN GIRL TRAP

By Associated Press

St. Paul, Aug. 24—A pretty St. Paul girl who had been seen with Homer Van Meter, slain Dillinger gangster, on several occasions when the desperado made the Twin Cities his headquarters last March, was under arrest here today.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 24—Once more a woman has led a Dillinger gangster to the end of the outlaw trail.

Homer Van Meter, John Dillinger's ace gunman, walked into a police trap last night and fell, full of lead, in an alley. Dillinger himself was similarly slain July 22, baited to his death—in an alley, too—by a woman.

Van Meter, the sixth of the Dillinger mob to die, was betrayed unwittingly by his interest in a woman. Her name is being withheld. Police said Van Meter had been "going around" with her and that relatives of the woman, suspicious of him, had gone to the police. A check satisfied officers that the man was Van Meter, and careful plans were laid for his capture, dead or alive.

NELSON TRAIL FOLLOWED

And, on the heels of the slaying, it was learned that authorities here are pressing a two-fold man hunt for George "Baby Face" Nelson, Public Enemy No. 1.

Battle Smoke in Air, Duce Declares

BREAK MAY COME ANYTIME, HE SAYS

By Associated Press

Bologna, Italy, Aug. 24—War may break out at any moment, Premier Mussolini said today in an address to 5000 officers and foreign military attaches at the conclusion of the Italian army maneuvers.

"No one in Europe wishes war," he said, standing on the turret of a heavy assault tank as he spoke.

"But the idea of war is floating in the air," he asserted. "At the end of July an unforeseen situation developed which was similar to that which prevailed in 1914," he continued. "If we had not sent our divisions to the frontier, complications might have resulted that could not have been dissolved except by the voice of the cannon.

"It is not necessary to be ready for the war of tomorrow, but for the war of today."

"The political, economic and spiritual life of the nation ought to be based on its military necessities," the premier said.

"Because certain nations rise and others decline, it develops that despite good will conferences and treaties, war will accompany the fortunes of nations throughout the centuries."

The entire Italian people, he added, today is ready to respond as a single unit in case of need.

"I call your attention to the fact that the ground which has been chosen for the maneuvers resembles that of the Italian frontier—the same broken terrain and even the same lack of water."

He praised the officers for their excellent showing and said King Victor Emmanuel had expressed himself as being very well satisfied wth the maneuvers. He had praise especially for the hydraulic service and the forestry militia.

"The roads must be kept free," he said, "and these maneuvers have taught us it is necessary to prepare centers of concentration for vehicles on the mountainous frontier."

Mussolini was wearing the uniform of a corporal of the Fascist militia as he spoke. Among the foreign military officers who heard the address was Captain Francis Brady, American air attache.

BECKER'S NAME OFF BALLOT

The name of Philip Burke Becker of Brookline was ordered stricken from the primary ballot as candidate for the Repuglican nomination for Governor's Council after 85 witnesses today repudiated their alleged signatures on his papers before the State Ballot Law Commission at the State House.

Former Chairman of the Parole Board Frank A. Brooks, candidate for the same office, protested Becker's papers.

Frank G. Volpe, counsel for Brooks, requested that the commission prosecute Becker, saying:

"There is no question as to the law being violated."

The commission informed Volpe that prosecution was the duty of enforcement agencies and suggested that he bring the matter to the attention of the office of the attorney-general.

Atty. Volpe said:

"I will write a letter to Atty. Gen. Warner and say I am taking the step on the recommendation of this commission."

Chairman Charles P. Beckford, of the commission, replied:

swung into the search for Nelson, most ruthless of the Dillinger followers, when it was disclosed that he had been here with Van Meter in the past week.

Van Meter was shot and killed in a battle with St. Paul's new chief of police, Frank Cullen, and three fellow-officers. A hail of leaden machine gun bullets and shotgun slugs felled America's Public Enemy No. 4 as he fled the police trap set by Chief Cullen and his aides.

Chief Cullen said:

"Dillinger and his boys had played around with women while they hid out here. It was one of these women who recently got mad because Van Meter was concentrating his attentions elsewhere. She gave us some valuable information. That is all I can say now."

HAMILTON ALSO SOUGHT

Detectives directing the search for Nelson's hideout said they had information that John Hamilton, first lieutenant of the slain Dillinger, was hiding out here with the baby-faced desperado.

The same woman informant who betrayed Van Meter gave information concerning the whereabouts of Nelson, according to reliable reports.

Tipped off that Van Meter would be in the vicinity of Marion and University avenues last evening, Chief Cullen took his squad to the intersection in a police automobile. He was accompanied by Tom Brown, former chief and present head of the Bertillon department, and Detectives Thomas McMahon and Jeff Dietrich.

ALL HEAVILY ARMED.

Besides their service revolvers the officers were armed with two machine guns and two shotguns. Waiting in the squad car, the officers suddenly sighted the hunted desperado approaching on foot. As Van Meter drew near the officers stepped out and commanded him to surrender. A look of astonishment spread over the outlaw's face. Instead of surrendering he drew a pistol and shot twice at the four policemen.

Then he wheeled and dashed across the street and into an alley. Police Chief Cullen and his squad cut loose with a murderous fire of shot gun and machine gun pellets, striking the outlaw in the arm. The officers pursued Van Meter, firing as they ran, momentarily they held their fire when an aged woman crossed their path.

Opening fire once more, the policemen cut the outlaw down in the alleyway. Van Meter fell in the muddy ooze and died almost instantly. Examination showed that more than two dozen bullets and shotgun pellest had riddled his body. In his outstretched hand was the pistol with two cartridges exploded.

HAS $925 IN CASH

A search of his pockets revealed $925 in cash, mostly in $10 and $20 bills, an extra clip of cartridges for the pistol, and an Illinois motor vehicle registration card issued to "Henry Adams."

Like his dead chieftain, Dillinger, Van Meter had had his face "lifted" by plastic surgery as a means of disguise. His naturally chestnut-colored hair was dyed a deep black and an anchor and scroll tattooed on his left arm with the word "hope" beneath the design had been blanked out inexpertly with a blue blotch on the skin.

Department of Justice agents learned that Dillinger and Van Meter had submitted to the face lifting operation by the same Chicago plastic surgeon.

MET DILLINGER IN JAIL

Van Meter was a daring, devoted lieutenant of the late John Dillinger and usually wielded a machine gun in bank raids. He formed his alliance with Dillinger when both were prisoners at the Indiana State penitentiary. Both won paroles and, once onthe outside, launched the criminal band that won the reputation as the most infamous gang of desperadoes of the age.

Although crafty to a degree Van Meter was regarded by authorities as being capable of some surprisingly "dumb" stunts. They cited the time that he was taken from the Indiana prison to Chicago to testify against his pal in a train robbery case, he slipped from his guard in a railroad station in spite of handcuffs and later was found by police panhandling in downtown Chicago with the "bracelets" dangling from his wrist.

With Van Meter's death, the sixth of the Dillinger band to be slain, "Baby Face" Nelson and Hamilton today were the only two principal members of the gang still at large.

ARREST LOOMS IN GEM THEFT

A Boston arrest was predicted today as sequel to recovery in New York of $15,000 worth of stolen gems, allegedly a part of the $214,000 haul taken by machine gun bandits from a fashionable jewelry store at Magnolia-by-the-Sea.

"FINGER" MAN KNOWN

The wanted man, they said, is one well known in downtown business circles. He acted as "finger" for the bandit gang, it is claimed, and arranged supposed protection here for the gunmen after the job was pulled.

According to the officers, it was the Boston "big shot's" demand for quick cash settlement of his "split" which necessitated New York disposal of the gems just now recovered.

Positive identification of the recovered gems had been made today, it was claimed by detectives.

GEMS IDENTIFIED

The latter's name is known to them, detectives said, and his movements have been carefully checked.

Revelation of the "finger's" identity, the officers intimated, will cause a sensation in Boston jewelry circles.

TAXI TIPS GIRL FROM BED

Miss Mary Higgins, 21, of 28 Judson street, Roxbury, was thrown from her bed to the floor today and the front veranda of the house in which she lives was wrecked from a runaway taxi crashed into it.

The brakes released and the car rolled down grade at terrific speed and smashed into the Judson street veranda.

Athens, Tenn, Aug. 24—Mrs. Nancy Mary Ann Trammell West—who says she never kissed her husband during nearly 60 years of married life—likes the excitement of the modern times, but she doesn't approve of the "queer doin's" of today.

Approaching the century mark, Mrs. West saw her first movie here. She liked the cartoon and condemned the love scenes. Said she:

"Land sakes, Cal (her deceased husband) and me never kissed and we were married nigh onto 60 years Ain't it a sight the things folks think up nowadays—kissin' and huggin' like that."

Mrs. West is the mother of 14 children, including triplets and twins.

Preacher, Writing Movie Gags, Sees New Religion

By International News Service

Hollywood, Aug. 24—"The medium of expression makes little difference, be it a theater or a church, as long as we help people live a happy and healthy life."

Thus, today, Hal Raynor, film comedy writer, explained why he discarded his robes as rector of a fashionable Episcopal church in Berwyn, Ill., Chicago suburb, to become a Hollywood "gag man".

Raynor, whose real name is the Rev. Henry Robel, declared that the prime function of religion was to bring health and happiness.

In his pulpit Raynor carried out the same philosophy of religion that he now uses in creating "gags" (laughs) for the movies.

"Every man and woman wants to laugh, to have fun. Religion should meet that want. Religion does not mean only in the pulpit but in everyday life," Raynor explained. "If a comedian on the screen or the radio can make some of his audience's life happier by his jokes, then he is accomplishing more than those ministers who dispel nothing but gloom and disaster.

"My wife and I have always felt happy that we are able to get the increased income that this writing allows us. We are able to do so much good than we could before.

"We started when I was assistant rector at St. Paul's in Milwaukee, we gave shows at the church that attracted the young people. My wife, a former Follies dancer, (she was Dorothy Deuell of the Deuell Sisters) trained the choruses and I wrote the lyrics and book and music for the shows.

"Then again at St. Michael and in Berwyn, Ill., we did the same thing. The church had a mortgage that needed paying off and there is nothing like a good show to collect money for such a good purpose.

"When I was doing this, I went on the air in Chicago. I called my period an educational program but I sandwiched in my educational matter between songs and laughs, because I knew that people would listen to my messages that way.

"I think that religious leaders are realizing more and more the vast scope of the motion pictures. It is entertainment first and then educational."

Severely burned about the face by some ether which exploded as she was preparing it for use in the operating room, Miss Ruth Bozner, nurse at the City Hospital, is now a patient at that institution.

14 FACE DOLE FRAUD ARREST

Alleged failure of public welfare department visitors properly to check-up on grafting dole recipients was to be outlined to Mayor Mansfield today by Assistant Corporation Counsel Charles S. Sullivan, Jr.

Sullivan will ask, he said, power to conduct an investigation of his own into welfare department personnel and methods.

Warrants for 14 arrests will be sought today in municipal court. Other arrests, Attorney Sullivan said, will follow.

Commenting on one of the allegedly more flagrant cases of well-to-do men and women remaining on the welfare lists, Attorney Sullivan added:

"Everybody seemed to know about this particular instance except the welfare department visitor whose business it was to make a thorough check before the city's money was handed out."

Two Women Start Second Air Test

Chicago, Aug. 24—Two Texas women aviators are today flying over Curtis-Reynolds airport in an effort to establish a new refuelling endurance record.

The pair are Jean LeRene, Dallas, and Mary Owens, Fort Worth. A previous effort Wednesday ended after four hours, when first refueling attempts failed.

TEXTILE STRIKE FINAL PLANS PREPARED

Mill workers and operators in New England today were making their final plans for the general cotton textile strike that the United Textile Workers of America threaten to call on or before the first of the month.

While arrangements were being made for two big mass meetings under U. T. W. A. auspices in Lowell, officials of the American Woolen Company, in Providence, announced that they would shut down three of their Rhode Island plants from September 7 to 24.

The plants to be closed are the Manton Mill, in Manton, and the National and Providence Worsted Company and the Weybosset Mill, both in Olneyville, a suburb of Providence.

2000 TO BE LAID OFF

More than 2000 workers will be laid off in the three plants. Nothing was said about the threatened strike in connection with the shutdown order. Instead, lack of orders was given as the reason.

Meanwhile, yesterday's strike of 100 employes of the Atlas Braid Company, at Valley Falls, R. I., today resulted in closing down the plant and throwing another 100 hands out of work.

UNIONS MEET TONIGHT

Preceding tomorrow's strike-planning sessions in Lowell, representatives of 15 unions were to meet in Providence tonight to discuss tactics and strategy.

A general meeting of all Rhode Island mill workers is scheduled for Providence at 2 p. m. tomorrow, under the auspices of the Rhode Island Textile Council and the Providence Central Federated Unions.

By Associated Press

Manchester, Ct., Aug. 24—By an almost unanimous vote, about 1400 employes at the Cheney Brothers silk manufacturing plant here have voted to respond to the International Union's strike call if it is made, it was announced today by President Arthur Shorts of the local union.

Two secret ballots for members of the local union of the United Textile Workers of America were held yesterday for the day and night shifts at the plant. In both, the employes were addressed by James W. Green, organizer.

Providence, Aug. 24 (AP)—Officials of the American Woolen Company here today announced that three Rhode Island mills of the company would close from September 7 to September 24. The order affects about 2000 operatives.

INDUSTRY WILL DISSECT NRA

By nternational News Service

New York, Aug. 24—A meeting of representatives of American manufacturers has been called here for Sept.ember 11 to consider the entire NRA situation, International News Service learned today.

The presidential order reducing workers' hours in the cotton garment industry from 40 to 36 without reduction of wages also will be considered in conection with possibility that similar action threatens other industries.

Pending action at the meeting, leading manufacturers postponed comment of the action of President Roosevelt. The 3500 manufacturers in the cotton garment industry affected by the executive order will meet next Monday to discuss the order.

SOCIETY BRIDE CALLED CRUEL

The divorce is sought on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Umbsen, the complaint says: "wounded her husband's feelings by actions and words and impaired his health."

Furthermore, according to Umbsen, his ex-debutante wife was poor at housekeeping and antagonistic to his friends.

Filing of the Umbsen divorce petition made public the wrecking of a gilded romance which was colorfully launched by a Trinity church wedding here, a chief social event of the 1931 season.

MEMBER OF UNION LEAGUE

The bride, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Parker Towle, had made an elaborate debut at the Brookline Country Club in 1928 and had been admitted that same year to Vincent Club and Junior League membership.

Umbsen, scion of a wealthy California family, had been a member of Harvard's most exclusive clubs, including Spee and Hasty Pudding.

Social notables from the Pacific coast from New York and New England were guests at the wedding and at the reception which followed.

DR. TOWLE SILENT

Reached at his Summer home at West Harwich, Dr. Towle declined to make any comment upon his son-in-law's divorce action, although heh laughed when informed of the charges.

Mrs. Umbsen, who is now with her parents in West Harwich, also "has nothing to say," according to her father, who suggested that Samuel H. Pillsbury, attorney of Federal street, who represents his daughter, be called.

Pillsbury, surprised that the petition had been filed, said he immediately would prepare an answer.

SLAPS AIRED IN ACTRESS' SUIT

By Associated Press

Los Angeles, Aug. 24—Varied versions of a slapping bee, between a fiml actress and a yachtsman's wife, were laid before a Superior Court Jury of six men and six women today.

Ringsiders agreed Mrs. George B. Nelson, the yachtsman's wife, hit Nita Cavalier, film actress and radio entertainer, but they were divided on fistic technicalities.

Testifying in her $51,200 damage suit for asserted injuries suffered in the downtown battle last June, the actress said Mrs. Wilson stopped her and said:

"I was going to meet her husband and I said I was not."

Then in a loud voice, said the actress, Mrs. Wilson announced that Miss Cavalier was carrying on an affair with Wilson. Miss Cavalier said she walked away and Mrs. Wilson followed her and

"Slapped me in the face three times."

F. P. Tamarens, fight trainer, said:

Policeman Norman Leonard said he saw Mrs. Wilson strike the actress three times with a "right hook."

Mrs. Wilson contends she slapped the actress slightly in repulsing an attack.

Hollywood Watches as Doug Presses Second Courtship

Week-End to Tell Story of Mary's Love Affairs

By Universal Service

Hollywood, Aug. 24 — Douglas Fairbanks, Hollywood was pretty well convinced today, is pressing a vigorous second courtship of "America's sweetheart," little Mary Pickford, whom he wooed and won a dozen years ago.

He seems determined, say those who know him well, to remove the designation "separated" from movieland's most famous married couple.

SPARKLE IN MARY'S EYES

It was believed that Fairbanks again kept a tryst with Miss Pickford yesterday as has been his daily custom since he returned Tuesday after a 14-month absence.

And intimates of Mary and Doug declared that both are in great good spirits; that there is a new sparkle in Miss Pickford's eyes and that Fairbanks is even more buoyant than usual.

But neither Mary nor Doug have reached a point, it apears, of willingness to announce "we've kissed and made up."

Fairbanks, however, having abandoned all European film connections, has indicated he is back to stay in Hollywood and has no further interest in foreign shores; either heart-interest or business interest.

He conferred with associates today on plans for remaking in sound and color films several of his silent picture successes. Then he excused himself and vanished . . . in the general direction of "Pickfair."

There were those who hinted that Miss Pickford will "think it over" over the week-end and that Doug and Mary may be definitely reunited by next week.

Grounds for divorce that Mary mentioned in her complaint, filed last December and not yet set for trial, seem to have crumbled.

In the dark days of their separation, before the divorce suit was filed, Doug was quoted as saying:

BUSY ON WEDDING PLANS

Mary didn't like to travel so much and preferred a bit of work, and wanted Doug to stop playing and go to work.

Today Mary is planning for a big wedding at Pickfair. She offered the home for the marriage in a few weeks of Joseph M. Schenck, producer, and Merle Oberon, attractive British actress.

Mary will be the hostess of the wedding, and it seems probable that Doug will loom large as the host and perhaps as the best man.

10 WEDDING COMMANDMENTS GIVEN YOUTH OF GERMANY

PICK MATE, NOT PLAYMATE, SAY NAZIS

By Associated Press

Eugenics officials issued today a list of ten commandments for the guidance of German youth when approaching the complex business of marriage.

It's all right to "marry for love," but first the young couple must consider whether their marriage "helps the nation." "Seek a mate—not a playmate—for matrimony," says one commandment.

It is also undesirable, warns another commandment, for anyone in good health not to marry. Not to do so would break "the chain of the generation."

"Remember always thou art German," says commandment one. Number two urges "Thou shalt not, if eugenically fit, remain unmarried. He who without solid reason does so, breaks the chain of the generation."

"Hold thy body clean," says the third, which concludes with the injunction: "Remember you yourself are a German ancestor."

Number four—"Thou shalt keep the spirit and soul pure," warns against "alien influences" and observes "happines built on lies soon collapses. You, yourself, must live up to whatever you expect of your mate."

"As a German choose a mate of equal or Nordic blood," is the advice of Number five. Research has shown, it says, that the Nordic is superior and all German people are bound by ties of Nordic blood.

"The sixth commandment warns "never marry the one good person in a bad family," on the theory hereditary deficiency may crop out in the next generation.

"Good health is a prerequiste for external beauty," says number seven. It advocates that no marriage be effected without the submission of a health certificate.

Nine emphasizes the desirability of permanent marriage.

Number ten says, "The meaning of marriage lies in a healthy progeny" and patriotically closes, "you will die, but what you transmit to your descendants will live on: in them is your resurrection. Your nation will live eternally."

Girls Tell of Nazi Terrors in Austria

"We were," said Mary White of Evanston, Ill., a member of the party, "within three blocks of the Chancellery when Dollfuss was killed. But we didn't know anything about his death for 12 hours."

Other members of the party were Josephine Burns, instructor at Mount Holyoke College, who was in charge; Elizabeth Hallett of Hackensack, N. J., Vivienne Espeut of Passaic, N. J., and Bettie Buenting of Pittsburgh, Pa. Muriel Farnum of Providence, who made the automobile tour, will return from Europe later.

COLETTA PICKS NEW 'FLAME'

By International News Service

Pittsburgh, Aug. 24—Coletta Mulvihill, the 17-year-old bride who finds marriage a "convenient" institution, turned today to a new boy friend.

He's not Tommy Green, the 22-year-old truck driver with whom she eloped to Wellsburg, W. Va., last week.

And he certainly isn't Isador Paredes, the young Manilian Spaniard whom Coletta is reputed to have jilted for the Wellsburg wedding jamboree.

He's the young man with whom she drove off last night on another date. Her parting remark as she hurried off, was:

"If Tommy comes, sit on him and tell him to wait 'till I get back. If Sammy comes (a Grove City, Pa., boy with whom she has had dates) kiss him for me and tell him to wait 'till I get back."

Girl Gains From Singing Sickness

Belem, Brazil, Aug. 24 (AP)—A strange neurotic affliction, which impelled 10-year-old Maria Magalhaes to sing incessantly for more than three weeks, seemed to be passing today.

An alienist ascertained that the girl had witnessed the burial of Siamese twin cousins, who had died two months after birth. It is believed that nervous shock had started her on the singing marathon.

Shares Salary 50-50

Bette Davis, Newton girl and movie star, and her piano playing husband, Harmon O. Nelson, divide their weekly salaries equally, it was revealed today on their second wedding anniversary. While Bette's salary is, of course, much larger, she says the arrangement is successful and keeps them both happy. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

Bette Davis Splits Salary With Musician Mate

By HARRISON CARROLL
International News Service Hollywood Correspondent

Copyright, 1934, International News Service

Hollywood, Aug. 24—All salaries received by Bette Davis and her musician husband, Harmon O. Nelson, go to a monitor who divides the family expenses proportionately.

This understanding about finances, the actress believes, is one of the reasons why they were able to make a happy occasion out of their second wedding anniversary yesterday; and why the question of uneven incomes will not prove a stumbling block for them as it has to the happiness of several other Hollywood marriages.

Bette, a former Newton, Mass., girl, as a Warner Brothers' star, receives a weekly check that runs into four figures.

Her husband, only two years out of college, plays the piano from 7 to 12 o'clock every night at the Hayworth Club, popular rendezvous for film stars. His salary, naturally, is only a small per cent of what Bette makes.

But the couple, who spent most of the first half of their married life apart, with Bette making pictures in Hollywood and Nelson doing radio work in New York, are pleased with the arrangement that has enabled them to live together for the last eight months.

When not working, the blonde star nearly always goes to the club in the evening and accompanies her husband home from work.

EBELL ACTION IS DELAYED AGAIN

Armed with guardianship and administratrix petitions from the mother and grandmother of Hans Ebell's fatherless son and daughter, Attorney Lawrence P. McHugh wandered around today in search of a court, and finally had to give up pressing action until next week.

Neither Judge Joseph R. McCoole of probate court in Dedham nor Judge William M. Prest of Suffolk probate court in Boston was sitting, and no other court has jurisdiction.

Attorney McHugh said that the mother's petition asks for temporary guardianship over the children to protect their rights in the Brookline musician's estate.

The grandmother petitions to be appointed administratrix of the estate, which petition, if allowed, would void the last Monday appointment of Archibald M. Hume of Melrose, friend of Ebell, as administrator.

Farmer Is Roasted Alive by Bandits

In an effort to save his father from the horrible torture, Radioyevich's son, who was bayoneted in cold blood and seriously wounded, revealed the hiding place of the family hoard, $140.

DREAMS WHILE POLICE HUNT

When you're only five years old and you've been bravely trudging strange streets all afternoon and evening, you can't be blamed for being sleepy, too sleepy even to tell your name.

So Betty Sheehan, five, of Walnut street, Watertown, just drifted cosily into dreamland when she found herself in the home of a Cambridge janitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sheehan, her parents, however, were doing no sleeping. Neither were half a dozen big police departments. They were scouring every town and city near Watertown and organizing searching parties to go out into the countryside.

Meantime, Thomas Welch, Lexington avenue, Cambridge, apartment house janitor, was trying hard to learn Betty's identity. He had brought the child to his home for safekeeping after his wife, Mrs. Nellie Welch, had found her straying aimlessly.

Welch finally spoke to the police officer on the beat. The latter, after a check-up with headquarters, discovered who Betty probably was.

'LITTLE EVA' TO BATTLE FOR VENGEANCE

By International News Service

Cooperstown, N. Y., Aug. 24—A relentless cross examination, planned by Eva Coo herself, today faced Martha Clift, who from the witness stand attempted to barter the life of her former friend in an attempt to beat the electric chair.

Infuriated by Martha's recital of the murder of Harry Wright—a murder, the State charges, by which "Little Eva" expected to collect Wright's insurance money—the defendant reiterated her vow to take the stand for vengeance.

MURDER ADMITTED

Martha, mother of three children and former hostess in Eva's road side tavern, calmly confessed that it was she who had see-sawed the murder car over Wright' body on bleak Crumhorn Mountin June 14.

Six times before that fatal night Eva had plotted, but failed to carry out the slaying of her handy man, the witness declared.

When court was recessed, Mrs. Coo said grimly:

"If I take the hot seat, I won't be the only one to burn."

BARGAIN SCORED

"Why that girl would have been kicked from one end of this country to the other if I hadn't taken her in and fed her; treated her like a younger sister; given her everything she needed when her own family turned against her.

"Now look at her. To save her own skin she makes a bargain with the State to put me on the spot."

Trio Row 18 Miles to Aid Vessel

Coast guard boats were searching today for the Gloucester sword fisherman, Restless, following the daring 18-mile row of three of its crew to carry the news of the vessel's distress to land.

The Restless, which has no radio, became helpless six days ago when the engine broke down. After drifting for five days, a strong wind blew it near Boone Island Light, Maine.

Three men set out for shore in a small boat and notified coast guard officials of their plight.

'Taxi-Party' of 2 Officers Probed

Evidence of 30 witnesses to the "taxi party" of two Boston patrolmen was being considered today by three captains, comprising the trial board.

The defendants, Patrolmen Napoleon J. Dubois and Frank H. Doberty of the Dudley street station, pleaded not guilty to the charges against them.

FAYE NEW

YOUTH SHOT BY FARMER DYING

Littleton, Aug. 24—Shot, it is alleged, while picking pears with a woman companion, Stanley Watson, 18, of Batavia street, Boston, was in a critical condition today at the Ayer Hospital.

Claude Taylor, 30, owner of an orchard on Goldsmith street, faced arraignment in Ayer District Court, on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and assault with intent to murder.

According to state police, who arrested Taylor, the latter opened fire on young Watson with a rifle after Watson had insisted on his right to help himself to pears from a tree on or near the Taylor fruit farm.

The injury to Watson was accidental, Taylor insisted in his story to authorities. He shot into the air to frighten the pear-picker, he said, but one bullet, somehow, became deflected.

With Watson at the time of the pear orchard shooting was Mrs. Vera Lasky, 26, of Dorchester. She had been a visitor at the Watson family's summer home on Long Lake.

Mrs. Lasky told police that she and young Watson did not believe themselves on Taylor's property.

Town Chairman Held in Vote Row

Milford, Ct., Aug. 24 (INS)—Democratic Town Chairman Joseph J. Carroll was under arrest here today charged with having violated state election laws in conduct of a town caucus, August 16, when Carroll's forces routed those led by former Town Chairman Lawrence T. Gallagher by a 392 to 9 vote. Carroll was released under his own recognizance and will appear in town court tomorrow.

Girl Slashed in Love Argument

Worcester, Aug. 24—Her face disfigured for life by the slashes of a rejected suitor, police say, Mrs. Mary Faruchi, 24, refused to give police any informaton, but repeated over and over,

"Never mind, I'll get him. I'll get him."

According to police both cheeks were severely ripped by some sharp instrument. The attack was believed to have taken place in a restaurant, following a love quarrel.

'Just Losted—That's All'

So tired by her two-mile, seven-hour hike from Watertown to Cambridge, four-year-old Betty Sheehan just slept while police and neighbors of Watertown carried on the most frantic search in that town in years. The child wanderings were interrupted by Thomas Welch of Lexington Avenue, Cambridge, who took the tot into his home when he found her on the street. She couldn't tell who she was then and fell asleep. Police bulletins of a missing child finally returned her to her Walnut street home where she is shown here telling her mother just what happened. 5 SAVED FROM DEATH IN FIRE

Thanks to Alderman Thomas B. Brennan of West Medford a family of five were today safe and alive.

The alderman saw flames shooting out of the roof of a house occupied by Joseph Vara, and his family, at 70 Canal street, West Medford.

Brennan pounded on the door. When his pounding failed to arouse the occupants he broke the door in and through the smoke-filled vestibule shouted "fire, fire," until his warning was heard.

Mr. and Mrs. Vara and their three grownup children were led out of the burning dwelling by Brennan and neighbors, who had rushed to the scene after hearing the commotion.

Damage was estimated at about $1000.

POLICE SEEK CO-ED DEATH WEAPON

By Associated Press

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 24 (AP)—Still lacking a clear motive, police investigating the slaying of Faye New, 19-year-old co-ed, renewed their search for evidence today.

Harold Taylor, 18-year-old mechanic, is charged with the girl's murder, which, authorities say, occurred after the girl had gone for an automobile ride with him. Taylar has steadfastly denied killing the girl.

The authorities sought the knife with which Miss New was slain. She died from two slashes in her throat. An autopsy showed she had not been attacked before she was killed.

A. B. Cain, suitor of the pretty Howard College co-ed, disclosed that jealousy prompted him to follow Miss New and Taylor when they went for the ride that ended in her death. He said:

"I was jealous of her." "Now I know I should not have left her as I did. Now I know I should have stayed with her whatever the cost, but I did not suspect that she was in danger. I thought she knew the man she was with."

Cain told officers he followed the two to the spot where Taylor says the girl left his car after she objected to advances he made. Cain stayed there a short time and then went back to Birmingham. Cain was questioned after the body was found but was released when Taylor was charged with the murder.

3 Rob Brookline Gas Man of $40

Three unidentified men held up and robbed William Vollmer, an attendant of a gas station at River road and Washington street, Brookline, of his billfold containing $40, early today.

The men, riding in a car reported stolen in Quincy last night, drove up to the station and entered the office where Vollmer was sitting.

More Siegel Death Witnesses Grilled

State and local authorities today continued their probe of the shotgun murder of Nate Siegel, Revere World War veteran and former welterweight champion of New England. Questioning of several more witnesses failed to give further aid to officials in their investigation.

YACHT SOUGHT IN HOLDUP; TWO FREED

By International News Service

New York, Aug. 24—he misty ocean waters off Sandy Hook were being searched today by two fast coast guard boats following receipt of a tip by police that the bandits who staged Brooklyn's $427,000 armored truck robbery might be found in an anchored boat there.

Coast guard men began the search last night, but reported they had been unable to sight any suspicious vessels. No further word had been received from them by daylight.

DEFINITE CLUES CITED

The tip which sent the coast guard vessels out from their base in the Rockaways was received soon after District Attorney Geoghan of Brooklyn declared definite clues had been obtained to the perpetrators of Tuesday's daring robbery.

Geoghan said:

"I can't tell anything about the not reveal to me. But I will tell you this: The police are not working entirely in the dark.

" shall be greatly surprised if they do not clear up this case."

EX-OFFICER GVES UP

Yes detectives who for a flme thought the survivors of the old Vannie Higgins gang might have been involved in the case suffered a shock after they had gone to the trouble of sending out an alarm for Jack McCarthy, former policeman, who is said to have been friendly with Higgins before his murder recently.

McCarthy walked into a Brooklyn precinct station and proved he could not have been conected with the holdup.

Two Philadelphia Suspects Released

Philadelphia, Aug. 24—Two men, arrested here on suspicion of complicity in the sensational $427,950 armored truck robbery in Brooklyn last Tuesday, were exonerated by police today after an intensive interrogation.

Detectives announced that the two suspects, Leo Georgia, 23, Brooklyn, and Armour L. Phillips, 40, Los Angeles, Calif., had no connection with the Brooklyn stickup.

The investigating officials said they were satisfied the men were not members of the daring gang that staged the Brooklyn robbery.

"The Catholics contended that Mr. Deutsch should not have commended a country that had placed sharp restrictions on religion."

It is doubtful whether Russia and Japan will live long side by side peacefully until it shall have been proved which is the stronger nation. In our civilization only war provides proof.

Constant irritation in the human body produces cancer. Constant irritation in international dealings produces war.

Mr. Gene Tunney, who fought for his country and a dollar a day in France, fought for prizefight "fans" in the United States, retired as champion of the world wisely, because he had made two million dollars, thought that was enough, and, besides, there was nobody in sight worth fighting.

Now, Mr. Tunney is offered another fighting job by General Johnson in the national recovery administration. Mr. Tunney should be useful in General Johnson's "cracking down" department.

Break of Death Chair Halts Execution of Slayer

By Associated Press

Edyville, Ky., Aug. 24—Two men were put to death in the electric chair early today in one of the most nerve-wracking administrations of the death penalty ever witnessed at the Western State Penitentiary.

Will Chaney, Louisville Negro, convicted of the murder of George Bottoms, another Negro, was the first to go to the chair, and after two charges of electricity had been administered, the equipment broke down. Physicians, not knowing this, examined the body and called for a third charge. Upon being informed that the electricity could not be supplied until repairs were made, they re-examined the body, and pronounced Chaney dead.

Meanwhile, George W. Tincher, 37, waiting in the death house for the call, learned what had occurred. During the hour and 15 minutes delay, witnesses said Tincher remained calm, and told them:

"I'm ready to go any time. It doesn't matter."

Tincher was taken to the death chamber ofter 1:30 a. m. He closed his eyes during the process of strapping him in the seat. After two charges, he was pronounced dead, at 1:49 a. m.

The electric chair breakdown was occasioned when a coupling slipped between the generator and the motor. The equipment has been in use since 1911.

The drama was heightened earlier in the evening when a Negro chorus singing spirituals, gathered outside the death house under the leadership of Frank Crenshaw, a Negro, who was given a commutation to life sentence last year on the night he was to die in the chair.

Dennisport Girl Missing from Home

Hyannis, Aug. 24—Police throughout the state were today hunting Emma Howard, 15, Yarmouth high school girl, missing from her home in Dennisport, since Wednesday. The girl left her home in an auto driven by a man said to be about 23 years old whose description police have sent over the teletype.

Industrial Loans Up

RADIO STRIKERS SING, STARVE

The hunger strike of performers of Station XEAL, who say they will not eat until they receive two months' back pay, continued without weakening.

In complete possession of the power house of the station, they stuck to the microphone with renewed determination after receiving encouragement from many quarters. The crooning, orchestra music and dialogue went on and on without a pause for even so much as a pretzel.

A Red Cross station was set up at the studio after it became apparent that the artists were determined to croon themselves to death if their demands were not conceded.

Among the supplies of the Red Cross workers were concentrated food preparations of various sorts, but the performers would have none of them.

The strike was started by 18 performers, but later their number had increased to 30. Sympathetic artsits from other stations came over to the XEAL studio prepared to eat nothing and to sing interminably.

All of the performers seemed to be in fair condition with the exception of Senor Esperanza Estrada, who fainted twice in the shadow of the microphone. But each time he arose valiantly and spurned nourishment which was offered to him.

Through the Capital City and its vicinity radios were turned on constantly, citizens keeping in close touch with the strange protest.

An an announcer, at regular intervals, said the performers had not been paid by their employers.

WOOD KIN FIGHT FOR MILLION

By Universal Service

New York, Aug. 24—A free-for-all fight for the million dollars in hoarded cash and jewels of the late Mrs. Ida E. Wood, belle of the '70's who died a hotel hermit, was in prospect here, as Surrogate James A. Foley declared her will invalid.

Two hundred claimants to the fortune which the one-time beauty of old New York hid in her Herald Square Hotel room for nearly three decades prepared to press their claims, after the surrogate stated he was unable to decide the "next of kin."

The little old lady who died at 93 left her estate to two beneficiaries, her daughter, Emma Wood, and her sister, Mary E. Mayfield, both of whom preceded her in death.

Thus the door was opened for an estate battle which promises to rival the historic fight for the fortune of the recluse Wendel sisters.

MOTHER 'BETS' ON SON'S LIFE

By Associated Press

Los Angeles, Aug. 24—A mother gambled her son's life today on a hundred to one chance he could live through a delicate operation to save him from imbecility.

If 33-year-old Gray E. McNeer survives the operation, he must face murder charges of shooting his wife, Betty, last June 29.

The operation to which Mrs. Lola McNeer gave her formal consent in Superior Court was to remove a bullet fired from the same gun into her son's brain. The bullet destroyed one eye, paralyzed McNeer and left him barely able to talk.

He claims his wife fired both shots.

Brides Banned as Teachers

Fall River, Aug. 24—Prospective brides, teaching in schools here, must resign before the opening of schools or be resigned to giving up their matrimonial intentions. This was disclosed when the school committee refused the request of an unnamed teacher, to continue in her position until shortly before the ceremony.

Dr. John J. Kerrigan and Richard J. Barker of the school committee termed the request "unreasonable."

Salesman Takes Life in Charles

After removing his clothing on the banks of the Charles River, Leonard Johnston, 40, a salesman of Franklin street, Allston, walked into the water and drowned. Several citizens standing near the River street bridge saw the man walk to his death.

NAZI CAMP MOVE IN U. S. BARED BY DICKSTEIN

By Universal Service

New York, Aug. 24—Revelations that he had visited a Nazi camp for American-born boys of German descent, where youngsters of six to 14 years were taught "to goose-step, to sing the Nazi 'horstwessel' song, to regard Hitler as their leader, and to slight the American flag," were made today by Representative Samuel Dickstein.

Dickstein, reopening the congressional hearing on un-American activities, said there were 180 boys at the camp he visited at Griggstown, N. J., 20 miles from Princeton.

PARENTS NAMES TAKEN

Summoned before Dickstein also was Harry Woodhouse, a historian, whom Dickstein alleged had been named "in certain statements" as a Nazi sympathizer. The Congressman said Woodhouse had been called to make his position clear. Commenting on the Nazi camp, Dickstein said:

"I have learned that secret agents during the war have again been active here in connection with Nazi activities and to a lesser extent, with Communism. Some even go back to the Black Tom explosion. It is a rotten piece of business.

"We are fed up with the friends of new Germany movement in this country. In the face of the investigation, they have been conducting a camp which is strictly, from evidence submitted to the committee, an out-and-out Hitler camp. The spirit of Hitlerism, and not a bit of American spirit, exists there.

U. S. FLAG HIDDEN

While there was an American flag at the camp, it was only about four inches in size, and could scarcely be seen against large swastika emblems, Dickstein said. He asserted the committee had received more than 2000 letters protesting the camp.

The children sometimes are awakened at 3 a. m. and turned out in their nightclothes, "to provide them with a taste of war training," said the investigator.

DOPE IS STOLEN FROM DOCTOR

Theft of $300 worth of morphine and jewelry valued at $535, was reported to police by Dr. Gardner W. Hall, of Marlboro street, Back Bay, after he had returned from his vacation to find his apartment ransacked.

Included in the missing jewelry were two pearl studded stick pins, a set of platinum studs, and a gold ring.

The morphine stolen was in tablet form. Dr. Hall had been away from his apartment since August 1.

4 Institutions Benefit by Will

Bequests of $1000 each were left to four Catholic institutions by the will of Mrs. Mary G. Lavey, of Columbia street, Cambridge, filed for probate in East Cambridge.

The beneficiaries are The Working Boys' Home, Newton; Home for Destitute Catholic Children, Boston; Little Sisters of the Poor, Somerville, and St. Mary's Infant Asylum, Dorchester.

ERA PAY INCREASE BANNED

In an attempt to avoid further ERA strikes, State Administrator Joseph P. Carney has warned all administrators that in the future monthly allotments will not be increased during the month.

In addition the allotment must be divided over the payroll periods and any increases must be discussed before the allotment is made.

Much hardship to ERA workers has resulted because officials failed to carry out the plan and resulted recently in he protes march to Boston by Lynn ERA workers, according to Carney.

CHINESE PILOTS CRASH IN AIR

By Universal Service

New York, Aug. 24—A collision in mid-air over Brooklyn broke up the "Chinese laundry team" of Edward On Wah and Fong Tru-Shick, student pilots.

On Wah died as his tiny plane crashed through an apartment roof. His companion piloted his own badly damaged plane to a precarious landing in Maspeth, Queens, and escaped with slight injuries.

The two Chinese, inseparable friends, were studying aviation with a hope of returning to China to join their country's air corps.

At Greenpoint Hospital Fong described what happened:

"I was on top and Wah was flying below me. Wah zoomed up in front of me. My propeller hit the tail of his plane and chopped it off. He fell. My propeller was broken. It was hard to keep my plane in control. I was afraid I was going to fall in crowded streets, but finally I managed to land. I turned over and escaped serious injury."

LEGION FAVORS OLD AGE AID

Stamford, Ct., Aug. 24—Resolutions favoring old age pensions and unemployment insurance have been prepared for presentation to the state convention of the American Legion.

The legionnaires, swinging into the second day of their three-day meeting, were expected to tackle among other proposals one calling for the deportation of any alien who has not applied for his first citizenship papers after residing in the United States ten years.

Hiram Bingham, former U. S. senator from Connecticut, came to the convention here prepared, he said, to ask the Legion to instruct its delegates to the national convention to work for a greater army air force and several flying deck cruisers for the navy.

Sunapee Speedboat Raiders Loot Summer Cottages

Sunapee, N. H., Aug. 24—Authorities are seeking four daring summer cottage raiders who last Tuesday night looted nearly a dozen cottages and then stole two speedboats and an automobile to outdistance pursuers.

County Sheriff George A. Wooster of Concord, in charge of the investigation, was informed that after the cottages of wealthy New York and New Jersey summer residents had been ransacked, four men, learning that a posse was being formed to track them, made off across Lake Sunapee in a motorboat owned by Dr. Andrew MacMillan, Concord physician.

The boat was loaded with loot. The men headed for the wharf of U. S. Attorney Alexander Murchie of Concord, where ag expensive speedboat was moored.

Hard pressed by pursuers, who had been organized by Rev. Archibald Black, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Montclair, N. J., the men failed to transport all of the loot to the faster boat.

The looters then sped six miles across the lake to the camp of E. J. Poor of New York City, chairman of the board of the Hygrade Sylvania Corporation.

One of Poor's sons heard the men run the boat on some rocks, damaging it, and ran to the water's edge where he saw the quartette step ashore.

FALL FROM ROOF DOES NO HARM

A 20-foot fall has spelled tragedy for many victims but to Richard Engle, 43, of Topliff street, Dorchester, it was just an incident.

Working on the roof of his home, Engle slipped and fell to the ground. Horrified neighbors called an ambulance.

BODIES FEARED OFF LOST BOAT

Frankfort, Mich., Aug. 24—The bodies of two youths were found on the shore of Lake Michigan, near here. They are believed to be members of the crew of three missing since August 9, aboard the sloop Anita, out of Milyaukee.

Coast guardsmen and county officials said they had no positive identification, but believed one of the youths, was Bertram Miller, Jr., 17, Milwaukee, whose father appealed to President recently for aid in finding the missing sloop and its three young voyagers.

Hhrough President Roosevelt and the War Department, an amphibian plane, joined the lake search for the missing sloop last week.

LONG IS CALLED DICTATOR

By Universal Service

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 24—Huey P. Long was denounced as "a cowardly slacker" and a "synthetic dictator" as he continued his vacation here, professing complete ignorance of the forthcoming long-ordained legislative investigation of the New Orleans city government.

Welcoming 1000 American Legion veterans to a state convention at Lake Charles, Mayor J. A. Trotti said:

"Speaking to you as one soldier to another, I do not hesitate to say that my blood runs high when I think of a synthetic dictator being mentioned in the same breath with 'Private' Mussolini and 'Corporal' Hitler, who, at least, had the patriotism and courage to risk their lives in the front ranks of their countries' armed forces.

"I am not in harmony in any manner with any cowardly slacker who is set up by a bunch of crooked politicians as a dictator of the State of Louisiana."

At his hotel here, Senator Long parried all queries about the probe and his new dictatorial powers. He said:

"I'm here to chop wood. I'm a federal officer and I don't believe in the government interfering in the affairs of the state. I don't know anything about a probe of the New Orleans government."

RUNAWAY WIVES SELFISH, POLICEWOMAN SAYS

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

That is one problem that confounds all sociological conclusions.

It is a problem that defies all reason and logic and, yet, according to Miss Irene McAuliffe, woman detective attached to Boston police department, it is a problem which is becoming bigger and bigger in Boston and other metropolitan cities every year.

Irene McAuliffe.

The runaway wife has become so common of late that most of them are relegated to the inside pages in the newspapers—unless there is an unusual and significant element involved which comes to light.

But, Miss McAuliffe points out there are hundreds such cases in which there is no scandal, or in which the scandal never reaches the pages of the paper.

One sits back in bewildered amazement and despite all thought and effort is unable to reconcile a presumably happy marriage with a follow-up climax of a runaway wife. Yet they come to pass. In some cases the woman detective has found, brides leave their husbands only after a few weeks of marriage as well as after a year.

MARRIAGE AS ESCAPE

Do women marry as an escape? Do young girls enter matrimony so absolutely ignorant of its sacredness and responsibility that they feel they can toss it and husband aside at the slightest provocation?

This is what Miss McAuliffe has to say about the situation:

"Most readers glance at the stories of the runaway wives and say, 'Another woman gone wrong ... another man in the offing ...' and dismiss the matter from their minds. But it is a problem that cannot be dismissed so lightly. It is a problem that must be solved some day if we want the marriage institution to continue on its high plane and to prevent it from tottering into discard, as it is being gradually undermined in these days.

"What are the causes lying behind the runaway wives?

WIVES DISCONTENTED

"First, there is restlessness, brought about by this age of sophistication dictated through social diversions. Young wives do not seem to achieve the contentment that came with marriage some years back. Young wives, rushing into a union of which they have only surface knowledge, refusing to relinquish their own selfish desires, soon find disappointment and disillusionment when their daily diet isn't one of honey and cream.

"Secondly, there is the increased opportunity for a married woman to take advantage of economic equality with her husband, a condition which has gown largely out of the war. And in this depression age to take over the economic responsibility of the home, demoralizing the initiative and ambition of her husband as she becomes a self-sufficient personality gradually out-growing the economic use and need of the man she married to protect and love her.

"Thirdly, the growing disregard of convention. To be conventional nowadays is considered to be behind the times. Sophistication has replaced simplicity and gentility. The changing moral standard which is trying to place man and woman on an equal social plane of morality is indeed undermining the institution of marriage. The unconventionality of enjoying a man, other's than one's own husband, either in public or private places of amusement is getting to be a serious problem.

ANXIOUS TO EXPERIMENT

"Lastly, the matter of divorce which can be obtained so easily that marriage is only a stepping-stone for some girls into an unexplored realm about which they have heard much and are anxious to experiment with. For that is just what is wrong with marriage, today. There is much too much experimentation with an institution that should be permanent, beautiful and illuminating.

"The free and easy manner with which young girls exchange husbands is one of the great tragedies of these present years. I am sorry to say that from my observations the young wives of today do not take the marriage vow as seriously as it should be taken. To most 1934 girls—those girls who as wives soon find their way into the port of missing girls—the wedding march should be played with a hey, nonny, non[illegible] and a hotcha cha.

"With [illegible] many men to be had, there are many young wives who do not play the game according to rules. That profound respect for marriage is being dissipated and today young girls talk freely with their spouses, long before they are even wedded to them, about 'throwing up the sponge' in the event of incompatibility.

WILLING TO TAKE CHANCE

"Thirty years ago boys and girls entered into a period of courtship that in the majority of cases directed them into marital channels that were safe from rifts and dissolution. Today, girls are willing as they say, 'to take a chance, and if you don't succeed, try, try again.'

"Most runaway wives run away to escape the boredom of marriage life, or to 'have a good time,' unfettered by husbands, household duties and by 'the kids.' These women, for the most part, were parasites to begin with. They married to obtain for themselves 'meal tickets,' to escape the daily drudgery of labor under an enchanted illusion that marriage would prop them up in a golden bed with golden service.

"And when they discover that it is a 50-50 proposition and NOT a 90-10 bargain—with their chances of hogging the whole business to themselves, they balk, kick and finally quit.

"It is shocking. It is disturbing. And, worst of all, it is true.

"There was a young married woman that came to my attention a short time ago. I will call her Edith for I do not want to reveal her name. Edith ran away from a good home, a decent first-rate husband, and exchanged comfort and luxuries for commonplace surroundings with other girls and with young men who were her inferior in every way.

"'Oh, my husband got on my nerves,' she told me.

"I found her sharing an apartment with two other girls, one a manicurist in a barber shop, the other girl who was so indolent that she rarely worked, and, then only as a model.

"'He's cranky, too,' she said, 'I've been married five years and I an only 25 now.'

HUSBAND WANTED TO SAVE

"To her point of view this seemed perfect justification for having dropped from sight while her husband, a successful young business man, neglected his business and frantically searched for her.

"'I want to live my own way,' she declared. 'My husband is always too tired to take me to a show. He thinks that if he goes to the movies with me once a week, he is showing me a good time. He wants to save every cent, too . . . I want to live while I am young.'

"You see it was the individualistic philosophy of personal selfishness . . . the viewpoint of a parasitic woman who married to get a 'new' slant on life and when it greyed at the edges gave it the go-by in favor of a more thrilling although precarious existence.

"But she went back to her husband, for he was the sort who would take a woman back and give her another chance. They are not all like that, however. Sometimes a husband refuses to re-establish the home. Then, the divorce courts come into play and there is more misery.

TRAGIC FOR CHILDREN

"Where there are children, the tragedy is greater. Then is when the heartaches appear. But, strangely enough, the wives do not seem to think of the children when they grab a bag and drop from sight. I sometimes wonder what is going through their crazy heads.

"The viewpoints of these women are hard to understand. The runaway wife seems harder, shrewder, more dangerous than the others. They have one-track minds to be sure. They get a warped, selfish point of view and, without giving it a second thought, they dash away on the slightest provocation, leaving sadness and misery in their wake.

"It would be so much more intelligent if a disappointed and unhappy or bored wife could sit down at a table with her husband and reason out their difficulties. But there is no room for the exercise of intelligence when a wife with the idea of running away in her mind thinks only of herself.

FEW RUNAWAYS JUSTIFIED

"Most of the runaways are not justified in runing away. And most of their husbands, the young ones, are willing to take them back and, in many cases, willingly shoulder the blame.

"Does this mean that young married men are more tolerant than their wives? I'm sure I do not know.

"But I do know that the runaway wife question is becoming one of the biggest police problems today. It seems to be that if young wives would resort to reason they would avert many tragedies.

"I wonder if the problem would not be solved if all young wives tried that out for a year, instead of subscribing to a fanciful belief that a runaway romance and a Prince Charming await them around the elusive corner of nowhere. I hope that some will take my advice.

LIBERTY LEAGUE HIT BY GLASS, BYRD, GORE

By Associated Press

Washington, Aug. 24—Everyone looked toward the White House today to see how President Roosevelt would react to the American Liberty League.

Although the new-born league seemed to some observers to be a forerunner of shattered party lines and a new alignment of "Right" camp against "Left" it evoked also a demonstration that party ties have strength.

Five Democratic Senators—whose names had been mentioned in connection with the league—made a public declaration of loyalty to the Roosevelt Administration.

Committee came a statement quoting the five—Glass and Byrd of Virginia, Gore of Oklahoma, Tydings of Maryland and Bailey of North Carolina—as denying any part in "the formation of a conservative bloc in Congress composed of Republicans and Democrats in opposition to the new deal."

REPUDIATED BY GLASS

The statement said "reports published in Republican newspapers" had named them in this connection.

Senator Glass said:

"Any suggestion that I am co-operating with the Republican party or with Republican individuals, directly or indirectly, is just a pure invention."

Jouett Shouse, president of the league which is being launched as a bi-partisan movement to urge the "rights of persons and property" on Congress, reiterated that it was not "anti-Roosevelt" or "anti" anything.

Some Democrats left no doubt that they regarded the league as an attempt to crystalize "rightist" opposition to certain New Deal trends, while Secretary of the Interior Ickes, an old Bull Mooser, said it meant the beginning of a division in accordance with the real issue. Ickes added:

"I should like to see all progressives get together in one camp and all conservatives in another. Then we would always be facing our enemies instead of wondering what was happening behind our backs."

POPE NAMES FLETCHER

Representative Wadsworth (R.) of New York, one of the league's "original six," said it would seek to arouse the public to the "character of the attack being made on the Constitution."

Senator Pope (D., Idaho) saw in it the "philosophy" of Henry P. Fletcher, Republican national chairman, and Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) called its founders "die-hards and standpatters."

The executive committee—now composed of Wadsworth, Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, Shouse, Nathan L. Miller and Irenee duPont—is to be increased to 18.

The league seeks 4,000,000 members and Shouse said it was being deluged with pledges of support.

Suspect Held in Fox Kidnap Plot

By Universal Service

New York, Aug. 24—Invoking the Lindbergh law, agents of the Department of Justice here seized an unnaturalized Frenchman on a charge of threatening to kidnap members of the family of William Fox, motion picture millionaire.

The prisoner, who said he was Maurice Monnier, 35, of Hewlett, L. I., was held in $25,000 bail.

The threatening letter, according to Department of Justice men, was mailed from New York City to Mrs. Fox. It was charged that the letter demanded $50,000.

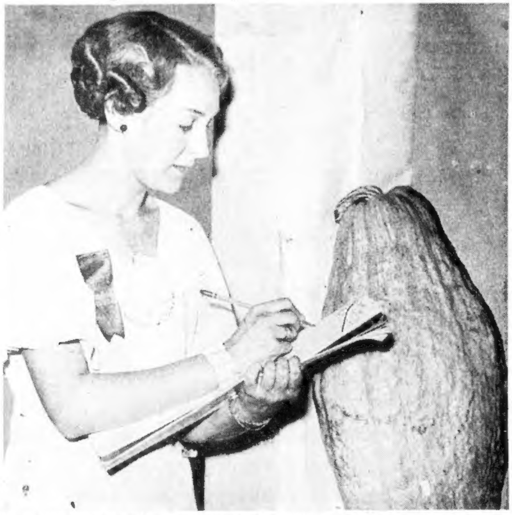
The 'Weigh' of a Squash at Marshfield Fair



Down at the Marshfield Fair the vegetable exhibits are big, one piece being enough to feed several families. For example, Miss Ellen Stetson of the Fair staff is jotting down the entry of a 74-pound champion squash from the patch of David McGoon of Marshfield. Richberg Gains In Fight of NRA and Johnson

By International News Service

Washington, Aug. 24—The star of Donald R. Richberg, director of the national emergency council, who advocated firm steps to enforce NRA regulations, appeared to be rising today as officials discussed NRA reorganization plans.

President Roosevelt today was expected to confer with Richberg; General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA directors, and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, and to reach a decision on the future of the national recovery administration.

Richberg is recognized as an advocate of stern measures with respect to enforcement of NRA agreements. A former attorney for organized labor and erstwhile NRA counsel, Richberg is reported to be determined to force NRA compliance upon the employers of the nation.

The rise of Richberg will mean the relegation of General Johnson to an advisory role, according to observers. Johnson has espoused the theory of voluntary sef-regulation by the industries. Secretary Perkins appears to be aligned on the side of Richberg.

Two recent administration actions were held to be indicative of the inclination of the White House to support more strenuous administration of NRA affairs.

They were the revision of the cotton garment industry code, through which 200,000 workers obtained virtual wage increases with shorter hours, and the removal of the Blue Eagle from the Chicago Motor Coach Company.

Both of these decisions were in favor of organized labor.

The former, in some quarters, was said to forecast revision of other major codes along the lines of the speech of President Roose- to code authorities last March in which he asked them to raise wages 10 per cent and to decrease working hours by the same percentage.

'RED' TEACHERS ARE ASSAILED

By International News Service

New York, Aug. 24—Teaching of Communism by "a smattering of reds" in the public schools was assailed by Colonel Walter Jeffreys Carlin, board of education member, in addressing the National Association of Public School Officials at the Hotel Astor.

Colonel Carlin, declaring that the average citizen does not know what is taught in the schools, also urged utilization of motion pictures and radio lectures by distinguished persons. He said:

"Unfortunately we have in our school system some teachers whose idea is to try to sell Communism and the destruction of our government. I have no objection to Union square and free speech, but I am objecting to people receiving money from the state and feeding unmatured minds this poison. I maintain they are obtaining money under false pretenses. I say we will clean up this stiuation."

CHILD WARNS OF NEW DEAL 'GIBBERERS'

By RICHARD W. CHILD
(Noted Author and Diplomat and Former U. S. Ambassador to Italy)

A good case in point is the secretary of agriculture's letter advising, in effect, that we cease supporting our American merchant marine so that foreign nations can earn the transportation income, to be used in purchasing our agricultural surplus.

It is a good case in point because it illustrates the difference between hurtful or malicious criticism of the administration and that which begs the President not to take bad advice.

A. W. Child

Heaven knows, if you were President or I were President, the first thing we ought to pray for would be warning against bad advice and bad advisers.

Loyalty to the President must not be perverted into a demand for loyalty to those who sometimes are caught giving bad advice—like Secretary Wallace in this instance—or to those who are constantly whispering suggestions to the President about the rosy dawn which looks to many of us like bad tenth carbon copies of Red Russian revolutionary measures.

If there are imps of mischief whispering at the President's ear, no citizen who values loyalty or patriotism will fail to say "look out!"

No such loyal or patriotic voice, especially if it is the voice of someone who helped to elect the President and feels responsibility, can remain silent merely because he or she is bulldozed by the clamor that the "New Deal must be supported."

WHAT IS THE NEW DEAL? IS IT ROOSEVELT'S OWN NEW DEAL OR IS IT THE NEW DEAL BEING WHISPERED INTO HIS EAR?

Is it the New Deal of the American Roosevelt, or is it the New Deal of those who would "PUT SOMETHING OVER ON HIM"—a clique of radicals in gum shoes?

It is not to discredit Secretary Wallace that this example of hamstringing our merchant marine is brought forward.

It is brought forward because it is part and parcel of GIBBERISH ECONOMICS.

It is gibberish economics to subsidize, i.e. build an adequate navy, at an expense of no mean proportions, and then talk about slashing down our merchant marine so that foreign merchant marines may earn enough to buy the little pigs we have just slaughtered.

The merchant marine of other nations—Britain and Italy, for example—are the important hand maidens of their sea power.

To abandon our own is to abandon the only formula for a navy ever making sense, i.e., A NAVY ALMOST GOOD ENOUGH IS LIKE AN EGG ALMOST FRESH ENOUGH.

It is absurd to engage in these pieces of economic GIBBERISH.

It is worse when it comes, as it does sometimes to the President in this day of the rosy dawn, in the form of whispers from amateur economists who are unripe and, if not pink—plain green.

An attack upon them is no attack upon the President.

Baby Show—With Sound

The prettiest, healthiest and happiest youngsters were there—at the Harborview school baby show at Dorchester. But—ah!—the squalliest, bawliest babe was there, too. And for crying out loud there is no youngster like Buddy McGrath, 1, held by Helen Collins, supervisor. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

2 Worcester Girls Learn About Men on Ride

Two Worcester girls who thought all men were Sir Galahads with the spirit of chivalry coursing through their veins, were sorry and disillusioned today as they sat in the Brighton police station awaiting the arrival of their parents.

The girls, Frances Heal, 17, Northboro street, and her chum, Lucy Riccardi, 19, Plantation street, were taken to the station house by Clarence E. Wedge, a North Reading patrolman.

He found them up on the Salem, N. H., state road wearily trudging along in the early morning hours.

TELL OF MEETING

They told the patrolman they were walking along the street near their home early last night when a New York auto drove up to the curbing and the two men in it invited them to ride.

They said they accepted with the understanding that the men would take them 'only for a few blocks.'

'REASONING' FAILS

The girls said they 'tried to reason' with the men, begging them to drive them back to Worcester, but that the men were adamant in their refusal. Finally they fled, the girls continued.

They had been walking for several miles when Wedge drove past them and noted their weariness.

Parents of the two girls were notified by the Brighton police and came for them.

K. OF C. IN FILM DRIVE

Detroit, Aug. 24—The Knights of Columbus are prepared, in the words of their highest officer, to go "sied length" in their campaign against indecent motion pictures and the producers of them.

Closing their 52nd Supreme Annual Convention, members of the Catholic order voted unanimously to "condemn the production and public display of salacious, suggestive and immoral picture films," and directed the officers of the order to take such steps as may seem advisable in promoting the campaign throughout the nation.

Every member of the order was urged "to become a militant member of the Legion of Decency," and the organization pledged its cooperation "with a view to determining the means by which the influence of our order and its members may be made most effective."

Youth, 17, Held in Bogus Bill Case

Hartford, Ct., Aug. 24—A 17-year-old youth who said he was John Boggi of Jersey City, N. J., was arraigned here on suspicion of being connected with a band of counterfeiters and was bound over to the September term of the U. S. district court.

The youth was arrested in East Hartford after he is alleged to have passed a counterfeit $20 bill.

WOMAN LOSES VOTE PLEA

Because she filed her signatures on primary instead of independent papers, the name of Mrs. Anna D. Andrews, independent candidate for the governor's council in the third district, has been barred from the ballot by the state ballot law commission.

Ten other candidates were also stricken from either the primary or election ballots by the commission, while protests against 18 others were dismissed.

Hearing will be held today on the protests against Philip Burke Becker of Brookline, candidate for the Republican nomination in the third councillor district, and ex-Senator Clarence P. Kidder of Cambridge, seeking the office of sheriff of Middlesex County.

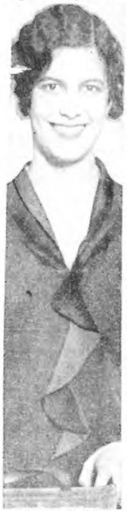
WE SEE BY JUDGE THAT THE Garden Clubs are taking up the zinnia . . . the Duxbury Girls are taking them up in a big way at the Town Hall in that town on Tuesday, August 28, from noon until sunset . . .

Mrs. Abbott Peterson and her judges are ready and waiting to award prizes of Fraser's zinnia seed to those growing and showing the most perfect single specimen from the All-American Giant Seed, for its size, perfection, color, foliage, stem and most effective treatment . . . so do not be satisfied that YOU know everything, or anything, about the perfect zinnia until you have tip-toed through the Duxbury zinnias . . . admission is free.



MRS. EUSTIS WALCOTT

Mrs. Richard K. Fuller, president of the Scituate Garden Club, Mrs. Charles Monroe, vice-president of the Scituate Garden Club and Mrs. William Franks, vice-president of the Plymouth Garden Club are to be the judges of the zinnia show . . . they are lunching with that well known garden clubber, Miss Louise Coburn, who is retiring president of the Community Garden Club, Miss Susan P. Moulton is the newly-elected president of that organization, Mrs. Charles Day is the new secretary and Mrs. Roger Spalding is the new treasurer.

There are three garden clubs in Duxbury, the Community Garden Club, the Duxbury Garden Club and the Duxbury Gardeners, which makes everything just fine and dandy for the zinnia . . . what chance has the modest violet or the flamboyant poppy when the Garden Clubbers vote for the zinnia . . . the zinnais have it!

Have you a little zinnia garden at your home? Fie! and again, more in sorrow than in anger, we say fie! Think what Mrs. Sydney Harwood, president of the Duxbury Garden Club and in charge of the zinnia show, would say if she ever heard there lived a man so dumb who never from the soil had sprung, a zinnia!

* * *

Novel Children's Exhibits

THE DUXBURY GARDENERS, Miss Frances Stebbins, president, with Miss Martha Sabine in charge of flower arrangements and Miss Moulton in charge of the children's exhibits . . . (this club specializes in children's classes and they are encouraged to illustrate in a flat pan approximately 12x18 inches their favorite fairy tale) . . . are bending every effort to make this the feature of the show. Say it with flowers, dear children!

And this is not all . . . you may have heard that only God can make a tree but who is responsible for Dutch elm disease? Ha! you don't know . . . well, Mr. Ivan H. Crowell has opinions on the subject which he is bursting to impart to all tree lovers, and this is not only for the Garden Clubs but is of interest to everyone . . . we must guard against this menace which threatens the life and limbs of our trees . . . Arouse yourselves, South Shore residents! Go you to the Duxbury high school auditorium on Wednesday evening, August 29, at 8:30 p. m. and list to the trials and tribulations of elm trees . . . and return home thankful you do not have to have robins nesting in your hair and are immune from Dutch elm disease.

Old Custom Still Lives

WE THANK THE DEAR LADY at the Hotel Vendome who wrote to reassure us that the old custom of the bridegroom kissing his bride at the altar has not gone completely out . . . she distinctly recollects a handsome bridegroom lifting the veil of his bride in St. John's Chapel in Cambridge in June of this year and kissing her . . . She writes: "It was a simple wedding and I think it will last." We are sure that if the bride was as sweet as the writer of this letter, it surely will.

* * *

Which sends a wave of sentiment over us (something we rarely, if ever, admit), and we remember a small, square old-fashioned house just down the hill in Dover, which is being remodelled for Mr. and Mrs. Eustis Walcott (Penelope Perry), who have recently returned from their honeymoon in Europe and are staying with their parents, the Arthur Perrys, at Nahant . . . We saw it the other night in the moonlight as we drove by, the windows and doors were open and flooded with silvery light, the garden was just mounds and shadows, but soon all will be painted and repaired, the flowers and shrubs will start to root and winter will find the young bridal couple occupying their love nest.

Mary Phinney to Entertain

TODAY, TOMORROW AND SATURDAY, the annual August exhibition of the North Shore Horticultural Society are holding their show at Manchester . . . there may be a zinnia or two allowed into this display, but with Mrs. Albert Burrage, Jr., prominent on the committee, there will likewise be some of the gorgeous Burrage orchids.

* * *

Miss Mary Phinney, one of the wedding procession at the Wells-Fox wedding on September 8, will give a dinner for her cousin, Elizabeth Wells on Friday night, September 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wells for the bridal party. Miss Wells is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Channing Wells.

Chatty Notes of Social Circles

MRS. RICHARD CARY CURTIS is giving a large luncheon in the garden of Cliffs, her Manchester home, today in honor of the judges and members of the committee of the flower show of the North Shore Horticultural Society which opens this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Horticultural Hall in Manchester.

MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL ROBB, of Boston and Concord, are among the many Bostonians sojourning for a short time in New York . . . They are at the Madison, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Childs, of Brookline, are at the Plaza.

Party Held at Trask Home

Outstanding in the social events staged this season at the Lake Shore Theater colony, Westford, was the formal party and get-together of the Lake Shore Theater faculty and student group held last evening at the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. Franklin Trask, directors of the Lake Shore Playhouse, America's largest summer theater.

Among the younger members of the colony who served as pourers at the party were Miss Ruth Trask, Miss L. Agnes Hawley, Miss Isabel Lucas and Mrs. Bertha Adams.

A few of the student group attending the party comprising representation of 30 states were Miss Nancy Applewhite, Douglas Arnold, Miss Isable Becker, Sanford Bickert, Miss Dorothy Crane, Miss Helen Griffen, Miss Rosalind Glickman, Miss Anita Hoof, Miss Elizabeth Lewis, Miss Virginia Magoon, Miss Louise Messing, Miss Frances Warner, Mr. and Mrs. William Newton, Peter Terry, Miss Edith Hanson and Miss Dorothy Wood.

Judge Davis' Wife Settles Will Case

Mrs. Mildred W. Davis, wife of Judge Elbridge G. Davis of Malden District Court, will receive $11,000, instead of $1000, from the estate of her foster mother, Mrs. Cleora B. Cleworth of Winchester, according to an agreement reached by counsel in the case and approved by Judge Monahan in Middlesex Probate Court.

Mrs. Davis contested the bequest to her foster brother, Harold B. Cleworth of Melrose, of $25,000. The estate is reported to be worth $140,000.

On Honeymoon

THE MARRIAGE OF Miss Katherine Elizabeth Hinchey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hinchey of Somerville, to Thomas Herlihy of Belmont, was solemnized on Wednesday morning in St. Anne's Church, Somerville. The Rev. Joseph W. Lyons officiated at the service. Mr. Hinchey gave his daughter in marriage.

Style Show on North Shore

Added to the already impressive list of mannequins for the fashion parade which Mrs. John A. Tuckerman presented at the home of Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr., in Magnolia today were the names of some of the fairest of the North Shore summer colony.

The gowns displayed were from the collection in Mrs. Tuckerman's shop, Madame et La Jeune Fille, and the proceeds of the event went to the Beverly Hospital.

Additional models were Miss Hope Blanchard, Miss Lily Warren, both debutantes of the approaching season, Mrs. E. Timothy Buxton, Mrs. Gelston King, Mrs. Harcourt Amory, Jr., with her small daughter, Nancy Amory, Miss Madelyn Phillips, Miss Rosamond Blanchard, Miss Phyllis Tuckerman, Miss Olivia Ames, Miss Alida Goodwin, Miss Peggy Parker, Miss Suzanna Seyburn, Miss Nancy Blumer, Miss Margaret and Miss Mary Armory, small daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Francis I. Armory, Miss Ethel Febiger, Miss Lindsay Febiger and Miss Alice Loring.

Maine Lumbermen Start Record Cut

Bangor, Me., Aug. 24—The ring of the lumberman's axe is echoing sounds of prosperity as thousands of men fell trees in northern Maine woods.

One of the biggest cuts in years was underway, with the Great Northern Paper Company alone planning a cut of 393,000 cords before spring. This company has 4000 men in the woods and more camps were springing up.

YD Club Members Hear Crime Talk

Prevention of crime rather than punishment of it should be made the purpose of penal law, members of the YD Club were told in a stirring address by "Prisoner 7321," a former prisoner whose "Inside Looking Out" dramas are well known to radio audiences.

The speaker outlined his experiences behind the bars and told the veterans of observations he made while a prisoner.

Sisters Will Be Bridesmaids at Swampscott Ceremony

MR. E. DENTON COOK of Peaches Point, Marblehead, will entertain at a beach party on Tuesday evening, August 28, in honor of Miss Sabina Lovejoy and Mr. Joseph Langmaid, both of Swampscott, who will be married on September 1 in the Church of the Holy Name in Swampscott.

Sabina Lovejoy

Miss Lovejoy will be attended by her sisters, Miss Sally and Miss Betty Lovejoy, as maids of honor and in the coterie of bridesmaids will be Mrs. Charles G. Price of Marblehead, Mrs. Albert S. Weaver, Jr., of Peoria, Illinois, Miss Jane Bertschy of Dayton, Ohio, Miss Imogene E. Peele of Long Island, New York, Miss Harriet Farquhar, of Lynn, and Miss Gertrude Langmaid of Swampscott.

Mr. John Frank Langmaid, Jr., will attend his brother as best man and serving on the usher corps will be the Messrs. Benjamin Langmaid, Charles G. Price, E. Denton Cook, all of Marblehead, Herbert V. Olds of Lynn, Donald Fitzpatrick of Brookline and Richard Ward, Jr., of Swampscott.

The Reverend James C. Cummins will read the marriage service and the bride's father will give her away. Immediately following the ceremony there will be a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster Lovejoy, in Swampscott.

Rev. Burnham Called to Beverly

Rev. H. B. Burnham, vicar of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, South End, has accepted a call to the rectorship of St. John's Church, Beverly Farms. He will succeed Rev. Nelson P. Carey, who has been rector of this church for 20 years.

CURLEY-COLE FIGHT WATCHED BY CAPITAL

By Associated Press

Washington, Aug 24. The high command of both major political parties are giving close attention to the approaching Maine elections—generally regarded as the first test of the New Deal at the polls.

Because of the possible psychological effect of the outcome of the September 10 balloting in Maine—the first election of the 1934 campaign—both parties are expected to send effective speakers and money into the state for the final drive.

Publicly, both sides are predicting clean sweeps in the senatorial gubernatorial and House contests, but privately the Democrats admit less confidence as to the outcome of F. Harold Dubord's attempt to oust the veteran Republican, Fred Hale, from his Senate seat.

The real fight apparently is on for the two House seats which Representatives Moran and Utterback wrested from the Republicans in 1932.

CURLEY-COLE BATTLE

Another New England contest is being watched with keen interest but the Democratic chieftains are taking careful pains not to become involved in it. This is the red hot scrap being waged between former Mayor James M. Curley of Boston and General Charles H. Cole for the gubernatorial nomination in Massachusetts.

The administration's interest in the Bay State primary is particularly keen. James Roosevelt, the President's son has had his finger frequently in the patronage pie and Louis Howe, the President's confidential secretary claims residence down Fall River way. Also, Curley, out of office because of a statute that a mayor cannot serve two successive terms, was the original Roosevelt man in 1932.

Cole has the advantage of the endorsement of the state pre-primary convention and the support of Senator Walsh and Governor Ely. Curley the not inconsiderable advantage of a strong Boston machine. Official Washington is looking on and maintaining a discreet silence.

McCORMACK FAVORED

Should the political trade winds favor Representative John W. McCormack of Boston for the Democratic floor leadership of the next House, as many think now is possible, Massachusetts men will be in key positions on both sides of the House.

Representative Joseph W. Martin of Attleboro, although without official title, actually is the unofficial assistant floor leader on the Republican side of the aisle. As first lieutenant to Snell, he is left frequently in charge of the minority and is one of the first consulted on matters of party policy.

2 Take $17 From Taxi Cab Driver

William Foubister of 98 West Newton street, South End, a taxicab driver, reported to police today that two men, who had hired his cab and were driven to an address on Park drive, Back Bay, robbed him of $17.

[illegible] said the men alighted from his cab. One of them shoved a sharp instrument in his ribs, while the other went through his pockets.

American Legion Contest Draws Host of Babies

Although the babies don't know it, fond mothers throughout Massachusetts were preparing today to enter hosts of their offspring in the American Legion Baby Contest, judging from the many inquiries that have been made thus far.

Under auspices of James E. Welch Post No. 56, American Legion, this big Baby Contest is being held, the only eligibility requirement being that the parents or guardian be registered voters in Massachusetts.

Entries in the contest must be made by means of the baby's photograph. Any pictures sent in must be of regular cabinet size. Snapshots cannot be used, and responsibility for them cannot be accepted.

Ten prizes will be awarded in this contest. To the boy or girl scoring the highest number of points will be awarded a silver loving cup.

For second prize, $25 in the form of a savings account, will be awarded to the boy or girl scoring the next highest number of points. Third prize will be $15, fourth prize will be a shopping check in the amount of $10 which will be accepted in the baby's department of a leading department store; fifth prize will be $5 in cash and a pair of shoes, and there will be five "surprise prizes."

In addition, a special prize of $25 will be awarded to the boy or girl with the most outstanding personality as determined by the judges.

Staff members of various Boston hospitals will be judges of health in the contest, while associates of the Fox Film Corporation and members of the staff of the Boston Evening American will be judges of personality.

In today's editions of the Boston Evening American will be found printed an entry blank to be used in entering a baby in this contest.

Clip out this coupon blank, fill it in and mail it, with the photograph, to Bob Watts, American Legion Baby Contest, James E. Welch Post, 23 Phillips street, Boston.

No guarantee is made that any individual photograph will be published.

Further details will be published in the Boston Evening American from day to day.

X-9 PUP NAMES POURING IN

Only a few days are left in which you members of the Secret Agent X-9 Club may submit your choice of names in an effort to win the cute and fluffy little Eskimo puppy offered free to some lucky member of the organization.

Thousands and thousands of names have been sent in, but even in the closing days your choice may be the lucky one.

The contest is drawing to a close, although the final date has not been announced yet, so if you X-9-ers want to be included get busy on your letters and name choices. You are allowed three choices of names.

The puppy is an Eskimo puppy, born eight weeks ago at Norumbega Park, a rolly-poly woolly puppy, full of fun and mischief—and all he needs is a name. And all the Secret Agent has to do is furnish this name and write a letter of 150 words or less, giving a reason why he or she likes dogs.

In submitting your names for this puppy, Secret Agents, include your own name and address and the number of your membership card in the club.

Send your names to Secret Agent Puppy, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

'Bossy' Gillis Plans House Fight on 'Stickers'

Newburyport, Aug. 24—Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis, Newburyport's [illegible] mayor, is not [illegible] to be thwarted by a little [illegible] nomination papers and [illegible] he says he will run on "stickers" in November for a place in the House of Representatives.

Bossy suffered a setback when [illegible] law [illegible] ordered his name to be taken from the state primary [illegible] on which Gillis expected his name to appear as a candidate for the House.

The secretary of state had ruled Gillis had an insufficient number of signatures on his papers as a Republican, Democratic and independent candidate.

Bossy said he expected the incumbents, Representatives Joseph W. Rolfe of Newbury and Herbert W. Urquhart of Georgetown, both Republicans, would be renominated and he promised to give them a real battle in the election.

SCITUATE BARS TIGHTS FOR BATHERS

This Is Life
ROBERT E. ROGERS

I have just seen the new film "Cleopatra," and without attempting to review the picture—which is not my business—I should like to enquire into my invariable reaction to a Cecil De Mille—opus—a kind of tormented curiosity about the way the man's mind and imagination works. He is a perpetual puzzle—and has been ever since he put a Babylonian sequence with orgies and cooch dances into James M. Barrie's modern and whimsical "Admirable Crichton." I know many people who have never forgiven him for that.

Robt. E. Rogers

Cecil De Mille is the great master of spectacle in this country, possibly in the world. For sheer mastery of great scenic settings, multitudinous throngs in violent action, banquets, orgies, ballets, processions, land battles and sea battles, conflagration, scenes of ecstacy, hysteria, passion, lust, cruelty, torture and sensation, he is unapproachable.

It is quite true that David W. Griffith invented De Mille's formula in such old but splendid films as "Judith of Bethulia," "Intolerance" and "The Birth of a Nation," but that formula De Mille has steadily worked on and perfected in "The Ten Commandments," "The King of Kings," "The Sign of the Cross," until now in "Cleopatra" he has, in some moments, reached almost unbelievable heights of pictorial power and beauty.

* * *

Against that is the fact that his stories are often so inept, jejune, adolescent, and contemptuous of the public intelligence as to be absurd. Always he chooses the most grandiose subjects and then spoils them in the treatment. The modern part of "The Ten Commandments" was ten-twent-thirt. His greatest theme of all, "The King of Kings," seldom measured up to the grandeur of the subject. His best knit, most effective story was "The Sign of the Cross" because there he followed faithfully a really well-made piece of melodrama by a competent play carpenter, Wilson Barrett. Now in "Cleopatra" he has muffed his opportunities once again.

One of his difficulties seems his inability to decide what is a reasonable dramatic fable, his inability to follow a great tradition instead of messing his story up with his notions of what is cinematigraphically effective. In "Cleopatra" he has a story historically authentic all the way down from Plutarch and in addition one given definitive treatment by William Shakespeare and a few other capable playwrights.

He could have followed Shakespeare throughout and made a magnificent tragic picture. He could have followed Bernard Shaw (had he been allowed) and made a great piece of comedy. He could have even followed the melodrama Victorien Sardou wrote for Sarah Bernhardt and had a good shipshape, well written melodrama full of authentic thrills and perfectly logical as well. Instead what have we in this fruit salad he calls a great picture?

* * *

And in their stead, what? An idiotic story of Caesar's bringing Cleopatra to Rome to crown himself emperor and her empress, hence the conspiracy of Brutus and Cassius—all of which any high school child ought to know is historically a lie—along with some attempts to treat Roman society as if it were a society of cabarets, pent-houses and a Broadway "line," in the spirit of a combination of Oscar Wilde, Walter Winchell and Noel Coward. Good people all three, but no Romans.

This brings up another lack in De Mille. He is satisfied in his great romantic and epic presentations with dialogue that kills every bit of atmosphere in the story. In "Cleopatra" one is occasionally thrilled with a bit of genuine language—a few words from Shakespeare perhaps, worthy of the theme and the mood. For the rest the language of the characters was consistently the language of lower middle class people in a suburban town—prosy, banal, stupid, and vulgar.

* * *

In this film De Mille insulted the good taste and intelligence of his audience at large, made himself ridiculous to everybody who has even a smattering of history and literature, and betrayed, misinformed, lied to that great majority whose only knowledge of Antony and Cleopatra—one of the great character tragedies of tradition—will probably be gathered from this hotch-potch and this hotch-potch alone.

His Julias Caesar, his Antony, Ahenobarbus, and Herod, were excellent. But his story with all its elementary absurdity was apparently put together, without any knowledge of the magnificently comic and tragic Cleopatra of history and tradition, for one of the most unsuitable actresses he could have picked—a pretty girl capable of neither comedy or tragedy, a nice, amusing, modern girl with the tragic personality of a glass of milk. That his choice of a star is the measure of De Mille's capacity in every respect, except his power to manage a great and a beautiful spectacle. Otherwise he just doesn't know what it is all about. Or what is worse—he does know and betrays that knowledge and his public.

Prison Workers Form Corporation

A charter of incorporation has been issued the Norfolk Prison Employes Association, a group of about 100 employes at the State Prison colony. The object of the organization is to improve the economic and social well being of those employed at Norfolk prison.

MEDFORD TWINS IN LABOR DAY WEDDING

Having agreed all their lives on everything except poundage, twin Medford brothers will be married Labor Day, at a double ceremony in St. Mary's Church, North End.

The announcement came today from Frank and Jeremiah Marzeoti, 32, former residents of the North End and sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Marzeoti.

Although they are twins, Frank tips the scales at 230 pounds while Jeremiah only tilts it at 130.

Frank's bride-to-be is Miss Pauline G. Prince, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Prince of Warwick street, Somerville. Miss Eleanor D. Rossi of Woodman street, Lynn, is Jeremiah's fiancee.

The couples planned the ceremony at St. Mary's because both twins served there as altar boys, and are now members of the St. Mary's alumni choir.

Following the morning ceremony a reception will be held for relatives and the wedding party at a downtown restaurant and in the evening for friends at [illegible] ballroom, Somerville.

Twins Plan Foursome at Double Wedding

PAULINE G. PRINCE — FRANK MARZEOTI

JEREMIAH MARZEOTI — ELEANOR D. ROSSI

Two is company. Three a crowd. But four—? Why four is company all over again. Especially when a foursome makes a double twosome. Frank and Jeremiah Marzeoti of Medford are twins. Having agreed on everything all their lives, they will have a double wedding soon. Frank's fiancée is Miss Pauline G. Prince, of Somerville; Jeremiah's bride-to-be is Miss Eleanor D. Rossi, of Lynn.

SUMMERS ASKS RENO DIVORCE

Charging cruelty, Donald B. Summers, chemist and formerly associated with the late Thomas A. Edison, has filed a Reno divorce suit against his wife, Mrs. Gladys Parsons Summers of Middletown, Ct.

The defendant is the former secretary to Frank A. Beach, president of the Middletown National Bank. The couple were married in 1929 and recently have been living in Kew Gardens, New York.

Also charging cruelty, Mrs. Alice Meikin has brought suit against her husband, Samuel H. Meikin of Horace road, Belmont. They were married in Constantinople, Turkey, November, 1920.

BEE HOLDS UP PATROL CAR

The radio patrol car of the Jamaica Plain police division has spells when its loud speaker buzzes just like a bee, Patrolman Peter J. DiSessa declared.

"It can't fool me. It's only static."

This time, it wasn't static. It was a bee. And Officer DiSessa, with a sting-swollen hand, applied for first aid treatment at the nearest drugstore.

Firemen Rescue Locked-in Child

Fearing that her two-and-a-half year-old daughter Tina had drowned in the bathtub after locking herself in the bathroom caused Mrs. Mary Nicolina Arcidiacono of Fayette street, Watertown to faint when she could get no answer from the child when she called. Firemen broke the door down and found the child safe.

Everett Milk Job Filled

James F. Sheehan has been appointed inspector of milk and vinegar at Everett.

ITALIANS PLAN BOSTON FETE

While their fellow townsmen celebrated in Italy, the [illegible] American Naturalization Club Montefalcione, province of Avellino, will hold a similar fete for their patron, Saint Anthony, tomorrow and Sunday in the North End.

Tomorrow afternoon a colorful procession through Endicott, North Margin and Thatcher streets will conduct a statue of the saint to a special chapel.

Continuing the observance Sunday a solemn high mass will be celebrated at Saint Leonard church, Prince street. The Rev. Bernardino Franchi, [illegible] instructor at the Franciscan Seminary [illegible] Lowell, is scheduled to preach the eulogy of the patron.

Another procession is scheduled to precede the mass and still another at 1:30 p. m. will course through nearly every street in the North End to the strains of three bands.

The committee for the Boston celebration includes Raffaele Rotondi, secretary, Giovanni Picone, treasurer, and Franseco Mazzarella, president.

Somerville Club to Visit Bedford

Arrangements have been completed for the annual outing of the Somerville City Club to be held on Sunday at McGovern's Grove, Bedford. Buses will leave the club headquarters on Somerville avenue near Union square, Somerville, at 9:30 a. m.

'Joke' Rescues Bring Probe

Court action for malicious mischief may be brought against a group of Medford [illegible] a [illegible] Mystic Lake [illegible] for help. When help arrived, the would-be rescuers have been told that "it was only a joke."

New Everett Scandal Seen in Council Petition

Once more Everett voters will be asked to consider Plan B form of city government with one board of 11 aldermen to replace the present boards of [illegible] seven aldermen.

Last year petitions asking [illegible] contained several hundred more signatures than were required for a referendum were filed. Registrars questioned some names, handwriting experts were engaged by City Hall and hundreds of names were declared forgeries. The petitions eventually led to a grand jury investigation but no arrests were made.

This year proponents of the one-chamber council form of government have again filed petitions to get the question on the ballot. This year's petitions have a surplus of [illegible] names [illegible] names and [illegible] was [illegible] papers [illegible] checked [illegible] been thrown out [illegible] because of lack of [illegible]

Registrars declared that they had not yet counted the number of signatures but that 1797 signatures were required. An official declared that only 1901 names were on the papers. He declared that the petition would never get on the ballot [illegible] at City Hall.

BATHER READY TO CARRY BAN TO COURTS

If girls can swim at public beaches in [illegible] which are not more than a couple of folded pocket handkerchiefs [illegible]

JOSLIN READY FOR TEST

Police of Scituate, on the other hand, were firm today in asserting that [illegible] aren't proper. And Accountant Joslin [illegible] the officers gave warning he is going to be booked if he persists in appearing even on his own private beach wearing only a sun tan above the waist.

To official threats, however, [illegible] Mr. Joslin was emphatically defiant.

He [illegible] his tights, if necessary, to the United States Supreme Court, he said.

Police court will have a chance to settle the argument first, according to Sergeant William Kane of the Scituate force.

Accountant Joslin's tights became a matter of police attention last Sunday when Joslin was warned by Patrolman Timothy Dacey that two-piece bathing suits were required by law.

TIGHTS RULE TO DATE

What Joslin was wearing or wasn't wearing was illegal, Officer Dacey said. He ordered Joslin to put on a jersey or some sort of covering for the upper part of his body.

Joslin's answer was that he'd wear what he pleased, especially as he was on his own property on [illegible] road.

WOMEN, WHY NOT MEN?

"So long as young women can walk the streets fashionably unclad and can appear on public beaches in suits which are not much more than folded pocket handkerchiefs, a man, especially on his own property, ought to be able to wear tights without offending the community's good taste.

"Men work in every city, stripped to the waist. Many men wear only tights when mowing their lawns. Tights ought to be proper for wear on a beach. I think, the police are a little weak on their law. We'll see, if I have to go to the highest court in the land."

OFFICER BAILED IN ATTACK

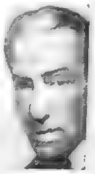
[illegible] of the two "runaway" Lynn girls that they were attacked by Thomas [illegible] Powers, a Boston police officer who had "fixed" two [illegible] resulted in the officer being free under $3000 bail today.

Mrs. Minnie Cavaleri, 20, proprietor of the Poplar street house, West End, where Mary Watson, 13, and Dorothy Barnes, 17, were held for two weeks, was held in bail of $2500 on serious charges.

Her brother, Salvatore, Cavaleri, of Washington street, Peabody, was held in similar bail for the grand jury on a charge of abduction of Mary Watson.

O. O. McIntyre
NEW YORK
DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—Thoughts while strolling: Beatrice Lillie always looks freshly slicked up. Those extra-sized velvet tams the ladies wear. Who remembers the [illegible] tons they gave with a new suit of clothes? What has become of [illegible] McCay.



O. O. McIntyre

One word description of [illegible]. There's a name for a haberdasher [illegible]. That phantom stillness just after New York goes home. Are the dancing De Marcos brother and sister or man and wife? Vash Young suggests a slim edition of Postmaster Farley.

The Vandyked [illegible] who jogs through the park driving [illegible] in an Irish jaunting cart. [illegible] on Broadway [illegible] Grover Cleveland. No one seems to [illegible] Evangeline Adams' place in astrology.

Ugliest yet most expressive word: ornery. Rex Cole suggests a Texas league second baseman. John Horgan gives the 40's a sartorial dazzle. How quickly the country protested at the slightest danger of war! I don't want to read another line on how much it costs Lucy Cotton's baby to live.

Those private house bars in the Fifties. With bright awnings, tambourine capped chasseurs and Parisian names. They say Victor Schertzinger has made the best film of the year. Remember his "Marquita"? Everybody talks going to Hawaii. I could go for a [illegible] of blue lagoon in the moonlight myself.

* * *

There's not much more fun anywhere than watching the [illegible] into Grand Central between 5 and 6. Here is an indignant twirling flurry of human nerves on raw edge, quivering after eight [illegible] of [illegible] Twinges of hunger have begun to [illegible] and fret. They snatch papers from the newsboys with a [illegible] Growl at gateman and [illegible] everywhere. [illegible]

* * *

But in all Manhattan's [illegible] I think the most anguishing figures are the [illegible] old women, ugly, helpless and abandoned, who are [illegible] on the scrap heap. They are seen at night in dark doorways or crouching in the shadows of elevated newsstands. Dull and mercifully [illegible]. When they are awake they drag themselves about looking for some unused niche to rest unwanted bones. Sometimes they can been seen creeping like ghosts from the galvanized cans which restaurants put out at the curbs in the pearly mist of morning. Digging into the decaying [illegible] of other people's dinners with claw-like fingers which once—who knows?—were lovely and white around the stem of a champagne glass.

* * *

So often does the human heart [illegible] the body. I've often wondered how many of these rachitic wrecks, tossing about in a city's night, are already dead to feeling, untouched by human [illegible] dead to everything but memory. Living with the knowledge the dream is over, the present nothing, the future nothing, the past the only thing [illegible] life cannot cheat. It would not be surprising to hear a voice from the rags cry: "Go away with your sentiment and your speculations. Fool! I have once been happy. I was once beautiful. Once I lived . . ."

* * *

And the most irksome job in the big town, it occurs, is that of a cashier in one of those large clattery restaurants in the Times Square area. Usually she is a neat blonde possessing that marked air of superiority assumed by [illegible] minded. From her cage she looks out constantly at an army of moving jaws [illegible] what a queer thing a restaurant is. Alone among the animals humans make a [illegible] of feeding. An unpleasant sight. Men and women of all shapes and sizes stoking themselves with fishes, roasted birds and animals [illegible] repellant [illegible] and rats have greater [illegible]. The dog slinks off with his bone. The cat [illegible] wherever he may be. On a garbage pail or in an avenue castle.

* * *

One of those highly glossed fellows with a button-hole flower and natty cane swung out of Pierre's this afternoon, apparently headed for the 5 o'clock promenade along the avenue. A half block away he turned suddenly back, idled in front of the hotel entrance awhile and crossed the street to droop on a park bench. "He probably [illegible] done his day's brooding," observed a lady with me [illegible]

TRAILER LOOSE; CRASHES CAR

Breaking of a coupling between an auto and trailer on the Andover road, between Stoneham and Reading, nearly caused injury to a party of motorists from New Rochelle, N. Y. when the car was demolished.

The trailer, attached to the auto of Elwood Baker, of W[illegible] avenue, Somerville, was loaded with camping materials. When it broke from the auto it dashed headlong into a sedan operated by Mrs. Amelia Reed of New Rochelle, N. Y. Trailer and auto were demolished. Nobody was hurt.

AMERICAN WOOLENS ARE FORGING AHEAD TO FASHION SUPREMACY

Coat Designers Urge On New Ideas

By Annice Brink

[illegible] WORTH [illegible] and [illegible] Rodier and [illegible] are spoken of in hushed accents. Any fashion wise woman in America not only knows the names but has probably knowingly worn a Rodier wool, or a Bianchini silk.

There has been a sudden awakening among the great woolen houses of this country. Perhaps not so sudden but to an observer out of the field it has seemed that they have just [illegible] must be designed and made to equal the artistry and pure design found in the imported stuffs. We should be able to feel [illegible] ican product."

How Can Divorced Forget?

By Marguerite Moores Marshall

YOU'D THINK a divorce decree of freedom ought to be like a golf or tennis cup—won three [illegible] into permanent possession.

With woman's incurable passion for mothering—or perhaps her equally incurable conviction of her personal charm—Eugenia Bankhead Hoyt, sister of that super-siren of the stage Tallulah [illegible] of Morton Hoyt, her ex or triple-X-husband. Eugenia has married him three [illegible] parently, did the divorce, as far as Eugenia was concerned. Morton may feel differently. For, as she pointed out to the press, with tears in her lovely voice:

"I came all the way" (to Nice, France) "to make sure he was not dying. But he insists on locking himself in his room and being 'out' to me!"

FRIENDLY DIVORCE

An attitude not only inexplicable to the anxious affection of Eugenia, but incompatible to the modern conception of the "friendly divorce." Instead of being a court cat-and-dog-fight, a really smart severence of marital bonds is the fond farewell of just a couple of pals—"a divorce that the industry can be proud of," the smooth, smug Somebody says in "As Thousands Cheer."

One of this [illegible] young matrons set aside her first husband to wed a Hollywood hero. The honeymoon was hardly over before, at 2 a. m., Husband No. 1 received in his hotel room a tear-choked telephone message to come down to the lobby at [illegible]

It seems that Husband No. 2, not carrying his liquor well, had returned to the Park Avenue rooftree, started to break up the furniture—and was on the point of confusing his bride with a [illegible] Ex [illegible]

All the Ex-es are not that [illegible] many a divorced pair lunches a deux, exchanges affectionate messages, takes a solicitous interest in each other's doings.

A decree of divorce—like a certificate of marriage—ought to be more than a scrap of paper. A divorce is the funeral of love done to death—how can the divorced forget that, and clasp hands in friendship above a corpse?

Fold mayonnaise and raspberries into whipped cream and blend thoroughly. Freeze about two hours in tray of automatic refrigerator. Makes about 1¼ cups mayonnaise. This mixture should not be frozen at too low a temperature.

Normal Opener Often Spells Disaster

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Mr. Cavendish may have turned over in his grave when West, on today's hand, opened the Queen from A Q 10 9 8, but if so, and if he is in the habit of going through the same maneuver in all comparable cases, he is getting more exercise than he ever got during his life. For Bridge players, like women, are becoming emancipated, and the unconventional lead is becoming more and more common.

When such leads are based on logical inferences, and not merely on a desire to be different, I am entirely in favor of them. For West, in today's hand, to have made the normal lead of the Ten would have been suicide, and even as it was he needed the Declarer's help to defeat the contract.

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

(1) A slightly dangerous overcall after an opening no trump bid but one which eventually gave South the key to the lead which would defeat the contract.

(2) North, with a balanced hand and the club King in back of West, rightly chooses to return to no trump, for it appears to him that [illegible] the club King [illegible] give his partner a sure second stopper in the suit.

Actually there is absolutely no [illegible] and yet three no trump is a laydown against all but one opening.

West, faced with the problem of [illegible] North and South [illegible] defeated [illegible] club tricks were set up. The normal lead from West's club [illegible] the top of the intermediate sequence, the club Ten. But West [illegible] automatically to [illegible] decided [illegible] the surface.

Because of North's return to three notrump, West decided that this partner was marked with the club King, since otherwise he would have held no sure stopper in that suit. South, having bid one [illegible] originally, was practically [illegible] with the other missing club honor, the Jack. For Weddings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have received an invitation to his college [illegible] wedding in another state. We are unable to attend but will send a gift. How will I word the answer to the invitation, and should it be addressed to the prospective bride in her maiden name? Should the gift be addressed the same way? S.

You do not tell me what form of invitation was sent, and on the form of the invitation depends the form of the acknowledgment. If the invitation is a formal one that is, in [illegible] person and to the church ceremony only, it does not need an acknowledgment. If it is accompanied by an invitation to the reception, this invitaton must be acknowledged. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dickson Seaman regret that they are unable to accept Mr. and Mrs. (Bride's Parents)'s kind invitation for Tuesday, the first of September

The answer to the invitation is addressed to the person or persons whose names appear on the first line of the invitation . . . usually the parents of the bride.

The gift should be sent to the bride, addressed in her name to her home.

CLEAR SKIN HAS ITS OWN SPARKLE

(POSED BY VIRGINA PINE)

Exercise Is Best Stimulant

Dear Miss Shelby:

F. D. Ayer

Answer: If [illegible] the brown spots (the peroxide diluted three parts) also lots of fresh air and exercise to stimulate circulation, bring the blood to the surface and impart a more healthy color and finer skin texture.

Tincture of Benzoin

Question: My skin is covered with large and coarse pores. What is the cause and cure?

R. S. Newton

Answer: [illegible] skin [illegible] unless it is a special pore cream. After [illegible] ful of tincture of benzoin to a quart of water. Splash plenty of cold water on your face several times a day. The colder it is the more astringent.

Clear Clogged Pores With New Soap

By Juliet Shelby

BLACKHEADS form in an oily skin because the pores are unable to discharge the excessive amount of oil that is sent to them. The pores become clogged and stretched and are open traps for dust, grime and make-up. When these become imbedded in the skin, "blackheads" appear.

If left in the skin, blackheads not only destroy the normal skin texture, but they become infected and cause pimples and other skin blemishes. In no time at all your skin is unlovely and irritated, and no amount of make-up can cover over its sad condition.

Perhaps one of the simplest and most effective methods of banishing blackheads is by the use of a certain medicated soap which is extremely beneficial in the treatment of skin infections.

Wash your face in the usual manner and steam it for a minute or two with a linen towel wrung out of hot water. This is to disturb the blackheads. If your skin is not too oily, apply a generous amount of warm olive oil after the steaming and leave it on the skin for five minutes.

With this special medicated soap make a thick lather on a complexion brush that has been dipped into warm water. Brush the lather briskly over the skin, paying particular attention to the affected area. Allow the suds to remain on the skin several minutes, keeping them moist with warm water.

Using your hands, rinse off the the soap and dry your face with a bath towel. Then splash water (in which some ice cubes have been melted) on your face and and pat dry.

Give your skin this treatment every second or third day. The blackheads will soon disappear, and your skin will recapture its lovely, smooth texture.

This special medicated soap is highly recommended as a cleansing agent and for the treatment of infections of oily skin. If you have a slight scalp irritation, use [illegible] soap for shampooing. [illegible] one bar in a pint or more of water, heating over a slow flame. Keep in a glass jar and use like any liquid shampoo.

You may learn the name of this medicated soap and where it is sold by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Juliet Shelby, Boston Evening American, Boston. Or you may phone Miss Shelby, Liberty 4000 for this information.

WHAT can a woman do to be charming?

It isn't a matter of a Grecian profile or gowns with a Paris label. It isn't a matter of age or money. It is often a matter of health.

Health means a clear skin . . . sparkling eyes . . . bubbling vitality . . . steady nerves and a dependable disposition. Radiant health is the foundation of beauty and charm. The woman who is healthy and friendly and interested in the world about her cannot fail to be attractive to others.

If you are not as well as you want to be, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remember that 98 out of 100 women say, "It helps me!"

—says Mrs. Davidson

"I was so nervous I wanted to scream. Your Tablets helped me wonderfully. My husband remarked last night of the difference he sees in me. I am not that grouchy, disagreeable old spit cat I was three weeks ago. I am a cheerful, joking young girl again."—MRS. CLARENCE R. DAVIDSON, 1311 Milburn Blvd., Mishawaka, Indiana.

"All the fun was gone out of life—"

"All the fun was gone out of life. I was very nervous and had terrible backaches. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a great medicine for a woman at any time of life but especially at the Change and before motherhood. My daughter Lucille feels 100% better since she took it. It helped my daughter-in-law, too."—MRS. S. MATUSHEK, 10907 Edbrooke Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

If periodic pain is dragging you down, ask your druggist for Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. Mrs. Marion Sidor, 5436 Grace Street, Chicago, Illinois, says: "I had severe pains and terrible headaches periodically. My husband saw your Tablets advertised and bought me a bottle. They helped me wonderfully — stopped all the pain."

It's old fashioned to suffer. Silly, too, when so many stores sell Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. They bring welcome relief from cramping pains, "blue" spells, periodic backache and headache and similar discomforts which undermine a woman's charm.

HITLER SHOWS UNCANNY POWER ORGANIZING PARTY

SWELLS MEMBERSHIP FROM HANDFUL OF FOLLOWERS

The Boston Evening American today continues its series of articles on Hitler, the human question mark of Europe. Most talked of man in the world today, the dictator of Germany holds the key to the problem of war or peace in Europe. Begin the series today.

CHAPTER 11

Seven has been a lucky number to many persons. It was that to the "German Workers' Party."

For Adolf Hitler was its seventh member. And after he joined it became the great German National Socialist Labor Party, sweeping everything before it.

The new member was immediately made propaganda chief. With an assistant—Adolf Hitler. The six other members also devised an office apiece for themselves.

The new Number 7 member became very active. Toward the end of letting the German people know the party was on earth He devised a plan [illegible] the newspapers so as to get some publicity. But, much to his disappointment, they paid no attention to him or his new party.

When the time for the [illegible] arrived [illegible] [illegible] members. [illegible] was opened [illegible] seven.

"The receptivity of the masses is limited," Hitler wrote in his autobiography, "My Battle." "Their intelligence is small and their forgetfulness great. Effective propaganda must, therefore, be continued to a few issues which can be easily understood and assimilated. The subjects must be presented to the masses in the language of the least educated, so that everyone should understand the point.

"Patience is the key to success. The masses are slow, need a long time to make themselves familiar with a point and have to be told the same thing a thousand times."

Hitler was perplexed and did not know how to carry on from that point.

By this time the success of the party [illegible]

A flag was [illegible] Hitler [illegible] with a swastika in white. [illegible] the Socialists that they possessed no monopoly on that color and the swastika [illegible] radical party.

An inspiration then came to Hitler. Growing out of his reflections concerning the growth of the Socialist party.

The way Karl Marx had become so famous was [illegible] the Socialist [illegible] He would do likewise. He would arouse the [illegible] of the Socialists and see what would happen.

With that idea solely in mind, he changed the name of his own party to that of the German National Socialist Labor Party. And [illegible] notices of meetings and other [illegible] printed upon [illegible] paper the color the Socialists [illegible] exclusively theirs.

The plan worked. The Socialists saw what he [illegible] desire. The [illegible] Hitler and his [illegible] where [illegible] up.

At that time the police chief of Munich was Herr E[illegible] Poehner. He heard about the [illegible] possibility of trouble between Hitler [illegible] and Marx followers at the meetings.

He decided to investigate and attended some of the meetings incognito. Listened to what Hitler had to say and then formed his own opinion. Which happened to be in Hitler's favor.

MAD MILLIONS---By Charles Grant

SYNOPSIS

Young and pretty Cathleen McCarthy, secretary to the wealthy Jasper Ingram, attracts her employer's son Seward. Realizing the difference in their social positions Cathleen discourages Seward's attentions but he is persistent and she finally makes an appointment with him. He presents her with an expensive bracelet which Cathleen plans to return, but the gift disappears from her dresser. Marion Alspaugh, frivol as wife of Homer Alspaugh, Ingram's confidential secretary, becomes infatuated with the Marques d'Alaves. She buys a new car to impress the Marques and the first time she takes him out in it they have an accident and the car is destroyed. Alspaugh speculates with Ingram's money to try and meet his wife's extravagances.

IN DARK SHADOW

By the time [illegible] Cathleen [illegible] the bracelet was [illegible] she knew [illegible] what had become of it.

From his [illegible] The [illegible] had occurred three years ago [illegible] he had grown accustomed to [illegible] would keep him straight.

She went now direct in search of him but he had not [illegible] had not returned for [illegible]

It seemed to Cathleen that it would be easier to lie than to face to return the bracelet to Seward Ingram. The brief [illegible] The home even [illegible] seemed [illegible] through the hours for J[illegible] return. It was after 12 when she heard his key in the door. [illegible] grabbing his coat with her small hand [illegible] You come with me [illegible] the kitchen where [illegible] she could talk without being heard upstairs.

"Joe McCarthy, you give me that bracelet you took this morning!"

"I don't know what you're talking about," he said with a fine air of injured innocence.

"You're lying. You took that bracelet."

"What would you be doing with a bracelet [illegible] Where did you get [illegible]" he demanded.

"That's not the question. I know you took it. You've got to give it back this minute."

It is not the question," he said. "A valuable bracelet [illegible] did you steal it, hey?"

He had made [illegible] it was too late [illegible] the fellows [illegible] [illegible] then [illegible]

How do you dare say things [illegible] [illegible] The [illegible] have the bracelet back!"

She had [illegible] there was [illegible] It was [illegible] I must have [illegible] think as bad [illegible]

What makes you think I had [illegible] to do with it?" Joe demanded.

[illegible] You've got to [illegible]

In the face of her moral strength so much greater than his, Joe [illegible] crumbled. If the bracelet had at that moment been in his possession he certainly would have put it in her hands. But he could not give back what he no longer had.

"I haven't got the damned [illegible] I had to get [illegible] I've been [illegible] a week wondering where I'd [illegible] I remember [illegible] When I [illegible] was [illegible] I hocked it for $35."

There was [illegible] for the [illegible] breakfast [illegible]

Cathleen who had [illegible] and whose face [illegible] marks of [illegible] sprang up and ran after him. He looked at her apprehensively as he fell into step beside him.

"I'm sorry about last night," she told him. "I was upset and could think of nothing but my own affair and forgot your trouble. [illegible] Tell me, Joe, why were you [illegible] desperate for money, so much money, three hundred dollars? One would think you'd robbed [illegible] the police were after [illegible] Are you all right now and safe?"

"Sure I'm all right after this," he assured her hastily. "It's too [illegible] to tell you now. I couldn't make you understand it. [illegible] But I wouldn't steal and [illegible] no business to say a thing like that to me."

"What was it then when you took my bracelet?" she retorted. "I [illegible] want to think ill of you, Joe. I'm your sister and I'm fond of you and only want to help you. But I can't help worrying about you. I know you have lots of temptation [illegible] it would be [illegible] I want [illegible] preach [illegible] you've heard [illegible] and if you won't [illegible] to what Father C[illegible] says from the pulpit [illegible] from what I say. [illegible] common sense [illegible] maybe you'll listen to me.

CATHLEEN WARNS JOE

[illegible] now, Joe [illegible]

"You know it would just break mother's heart and [illegible] I don't [illegible] it wouldn't [illegible] towards breaking mine if [illegible] Even [illegible]"

[illegible] tormentor only a matter of moments.

"I'm goin' to cut 'em out, Cath. [illegible] Maybe at that, it saved me from stepping a [illegible] with those birds a thing can happen. [illegible] I've paid the wop. [illegible] kid."

Question: "I do not have very good luck in freezing ice cream in my electric refrigerator. Will you please tell me what precautions I should take?"—Mrs. B. N. V., Watertown.

Answer: Here are a few [illegible] when you make your midsummer's ice cream. Don't use cream too rich in butter fat [illegible] per cent to 30 per cent is heavy enough. Whip cream just until fluffy and [illegible] whites on the other [illegible] until stiff and dry. Make your measurements [illegible] sugar for [illegible] freezing. Cut fruits [illegible] fine. [illegible] prevent [illegible] an uncooked recipe, use powdered sugar. Rapid freezing perfects the texture. In Defence of Summer Coaching Schools
The Reason for Being Detroit's Old Irritator
Maranville's Quandary
The Visitors' Share

By AUSTEN LAKE

THERE ARE FAINT ECHOES THAT the major football colleges of the East next year are going to forbid their coaches from giving journeyman summer courses in their specialty, on the theory that they are betraying too much useful information to the enemy, which is likely to bounce back later and slap them on the chops

Austen Lake

This would be too bad. Because summer football schools are harmless pastimes, more social than otherwise, in which the coaches give away only the elements of their trade which are already familiar to the rank and file of high school mentors, and seldom loose any of their pet inventions

It would be a pity, because of all this country's games, football alone is pervaded with an odor of longing and melancholy which induces a queasiness among its coaches and causes them to seek each other's company to quiet their suffering

So that they will sit and brood away the long months between seasons drawing little battle plans and enjoying a common worry about their jobs.

* * *

THE SCIENCE OF FOOTBALL is so refined and so mutually shared among the tutors, that the summer schools resolve into a round robin of the same thing

The coaches understand this but it does not prevent them from attending each other's lecture courses, enjoying the gems of one another's philosophy and peering at the blackboard art.

Thus it is not unusual to find Tuss McLaughry of Brown, Eddie Casey of Harvard, and Joe McKenney of B. C. sitting like apple cheeked schoolboys at one of Fritz Crisler's ateliers, and then, next week, Fritz taking his scholarship from them.

It is pathetic in a way, and bespeaks the heart bowed down by a heft of woe and the seasonal melancholy of the sport, with its autumn perfume and colors. Because, when the coaches come next month to apply their science, they will often be handcuffed by dumb athletic types with unmatched feet or spiritual infirmities, that cannot assimulate their arts

So that for all their summer studies and technical perfection their schedule may fall around their ears like so many spilled groceries.

* * *

IF THERE IS ANYTHING SINISTER in these summer schools it is only that they fill the coaches with an indigestive wealth of method that cannot be instilled in their charges in a student lifetime.

And the game today has gradually been lifted from the old-style subway jam in which the principle was "a straight line is the shortest distance between two points" to a Mae West theory in which the curve is the loveliest distance, and the more and twisting the curves, the lovelier.

It is a day when 11 men co-ordinate on a split second time table and woe to the stubbed toe. The wistful old day is gone when a halfback would shout contemptuously above the signals "Gimme the ball" and go charging through by sheer backbone power to score while carrying the enemy on his spine like a string of trout

* * *

NO SIR! EACH PLAY NOW IS WEAVED as curiously as Gobelin tapestry with the lads shuttling to and fro like bodkins in a knitting mill.

There are two major reasons why the coaches are driven to this form of astral arithmetic. One is that the flow of player material, formerly concentrated in the few colleges which were able and willing to offer bargains, is now spread in a uniform layer over the entire field.

So the coaches, who used to steamroll the opposition before the great purge, have had to fall back on jimcracks and gew-gaws to outwit each other.

The second reason is the alumni, the weasel in the coaches' rabbit life; those old Joe Collegians who, emotionally never pass beyond the sophomore stage and who annually swell the frog chorus for a coach's hide if his team's cleats fail to hold on a greasy field.

No group in sport today are so learnedly critical as the downtown old boys.

All this has served to weld the coaches into a defensive group, who huddle together at each other's summer schools, as much for the warmth of companionship as for the sake of education. Which is why I say it would be cruel if the colleges abolished these get-togethers and stopped the boys from communing over their sorrow.

LITTLE RABBIT MARANVILLE, who is preparing for his homecoming at Braves Field on September 2, is in a quandary. He writes Judge Fuchs that he hopes, by that time, to be rid of his [illegible] But he doesn't know. The leg bones are still achy and uncertain under his weight. But Fuchs has wired, "come with or without crutches."

Reports from Chicago persist that Rabbit is being strongly favored as manager of the 1935 Cubs, a team that he handled [illegible] during his unregenerate years. But there, as before, Fuchs says that no advances have been made through him, which is the only channel which the Cubs executives can legally approach Maranville.

MR. PATSY O'TOOLE, FORMER DETROIT boxer who walks [illegible] heels and has a voice like a police siren, is travelling with Detroit Tigers, sitting just behind their bench and causing no [illegible] of embarrassment to opposing players. He was here during the Boston series, and Rube Walberg accused Mickey Cochrane of paying the Old Irritator's expenses.

In the history of major league baseball there have been many campfollowers who make the rounds with the teams. YANKEE RACES WEETAMOE IN CUP TRIAL

By Associated Press

Newport, R. I., Aug. 24—With one of the nicest pieces of sailing on record to her credit her defeat of Harold Vanderbilt's Rainbow yesterday—Yankee of Boston, sailed by Charles Francis Adams, former Navy Secretary, met Frederick Prince's Weetamoe today in her second engagement of the final trials to select a defender of the America's Cup.

Yankee, with her conventional rig, a sharper entrance [illegible] stricted Rainbow [illegible] a 30-mile course to beat the Vanderbilt [illegible] by more than six minutes.

PROVES DISAPPOINTING

Weetamoe, her opponent [illegible] today, has been since the start of the preliminary races a disappointment to all who have supported her. Back in 1930 she was considered a lively boat in [illegible] but this year Yankee, the heavy weather champion of four years ago, has found her a comparatively comfortable antagonist.

Yankee has ordered one of the newly fashioned, double sheeted jibs, called Greta Garbo by the crew of the Rainbow, which produced the innovation. But yesterday, Rainbow sailed with her Greta Garbo, and Yankee, in her old comfortable rig, had no trouble in disposing of her rival.

Rainbow had a day of leisure today for the selection committee has ruled that every third day of the trials each contender shall have a day off in turn.

NEED REAL BREEZE

The only condition under which the selection committee has to date had no opportunity of judging the defense candidates is an honest breeze. All the races preliminary to an American defender's meeting with Tom Sopwith's British challenger Endeavour, have been sailed in light airs. The weather man held out no promise today of changing the weather fare.

Blind Draw Forecast in U. S. Amateur

Early exit of stars in the national amateur golf championship at The Country Club, Brookline, was forecast today with the news from New York that a "blind draw" may be made in the all-match tournament. It is the first such tournament in 31 years.

There [illegible] Dunlap's crown [illegible] would be impossible, according to John G. Jackson, U. S. G. A. vice-president.

Definite announcement on the matter will be made next week when the committee meets in New York.

The blind draw is used in the British amateur with frequent disastrous results. Francis Ouimet was pitted against Gus Moreland this year and was eliminated in the very first round

Moreland won, and in the second round was himself eliminated by Johnny Fischer

Cubs Lose Herman

Chicago, Aug. 24—Billy Herman, Cubs second baseman, was in the hospital today suffering from an injured ankle. Billy was spiked by Sam Leslie, Brooklyn first baseman, when the latter was sliding into second.

BRAVES, REDS IN TWIN BILL

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 24—Rained out of the opening game, Braves and Reds were to play a double-header here today.

Flint Rhem and Ed Brandt were to hurl for the Boston nine, Si Johnson and Benny Frey for the locals.

Pinkey Whitney, Braves third baseman, wrenched his back swinging at a ball [illegible] game with the Reds at Dayton, Wednesday, and may be unable to appear in the series. If so, Marty McManus will replace him.

There's a thrill for the Red Sox followers every time Third Baseman Bill Werber gets on base, for chances are that he'll try to steal another sack. He succeeds frequently, as his 32 stolen bases this season show. But skidding into base keeps Werber in agony, for he has had "strawberries" on legs and hip all season. The burns get no chance to heal, so Bill must suffer until the season ends. Here he whirls into second, at top, and shows sunny smile in lower photo. Speed Is Minor Detail in Stealing Bases

By Joe Cashman

There's a blur of white uniform and shining spikes along the base path. The fans, on the edge of their seats, hold their breath. Then a [illegible]

Bill Werber has stolen another sack. The majors' most daring thief has made another catcher look bad.

MOST PITCHERS DUMB

But talk to Werber about the art and you'll learn that speed plays [illegible]

"I'm fairly fast," says Bill, "but if I could deliver the mail twice as speedily as I do, I couldn't steal a dozen sacks a season, if rival pitchers did their part in holding me close to the bag I'm trying to leave.

"The player never lived who had enough speed to steal consistently on a regular big league catcher if the pitcher knew his business.

"It's studying the motions of the opposing twirlers and being able to outguess them that spells success in base-stealing

"Of course, speed counts heavily when you think you have caught the opposition asleep and attempt a surprise play such as stealing on a walk, which I was fortunate enough to do a few days back. But you can pull very few of those tricks in your whole career.

JONES, HARDER SMART

"I never take my eyes off the pitcher when I'm on base. Most of them have some flaw in their motion which permits me to get a lead that couldn't be overcome by the strongest and most accurate catching arm in the business."

The [illegible] went on to illustrate but without mentioning names. He finds it tough enough as it is without wising up the enemy

"One big right-hander looks over to first base twice," he says. "If he doesn't find me very far off on either glance, he forgets about me. Naturally, after the second glance, I can start and make it.

"He's crossed me up once this season, taking a third look and nailing me. He apparently didn't know what was responsible for his luck. The next time on, I stole

"You don't find me stealing many bases on Chief Harder of the Indians or Sam Jones of the White Sox. They're too smart.

"The man on base must also always know whether the situation of the game warrants him trying to steal. Bases should be stolen only to help your club, never for personal glory."

The glory to be gained, Wingfoot Will adds, isn't worth what stealing takes out of a player

"I've had a most painful strawberry on my hip for months," he reveals. "It never gets a chance to heal for I'm continually sliding on it. I can avoid irritating it when I have time to prepare to slide, but that isn't often possible when I'm trying to steal

"And it stands to reason that the wear and tear I put on my legs will shorten my baseball career a few years.

"I don't mind because I feel my efforts are appreciated here. It's a different story on some other clubs.

"Plenty of rival players could steal as many bases if not more than I do, if they tried. They don't because they wouldn't receive any thanks for their ambition.

"I hope I'm never forced to feel that way about it."

Tom Green Chairman of 'Rabbit' Board

By Joe Cashman

The committee in charge of arrangements for Maranville Day at Braves Field, September 2, has named the Hon. Thomas Green as chairman, John Igoe, Oscar Horton and William Fallon as vice-chairmen,, Dr. William Ross as secretary and Samuel Silverman as treasurer.

According to present plans, the Rabbit will arrive in Boston a week from tomorrow and make his first appearance of the season at the Wigwam the following afternoon during the Braves-Phillies doubleheader.

Most beloved of local baseball figures, Maranville is sure to receive the most cordial welcome ever tendered a diamond hero by New England fandom. And the game little guy deserves it.

At the age of 13, he has undergone four painful operations to regain the use of his leg, broken during spring training, that he might do a little bit more to help the Braves before he hangs up his glove for good.

The committee is soliciting no funds. Its purpose is merely to acquaint the fans with the fact that the Rabbit is coming back and to see that all those who wish to attend can purchase tickets with the least possible effort.

The Rabbit will be showered with gifts, but these will come from the Braves management and players.

A [illegible] slump at Fenway Park didn't last long. Held hitless for the first time in 17 games by Wes Ferrell on Wednesday, Alphonse came back yesterday to rap out two singles and a double and get cracked on the back with a pitch on his only other time at bat.

Luke Appling, who made three of the seven hits off Ferrell in the opener, came through with three more, two doubles and a single in the second tilt.

It seems that "Bucky" Harris had the right idea but the wrong men to carry it out when he tried to stop the Tigers with southpaw pitching. The Senators are showing it can be done, Lefties Earl Whitehill and Bob Burke having turned back the leaders on the past two afternoons.

The Detroit lead has now been reduced to four games, as the Yanks were walloping the Indians again while Burke was baffling the Bengals.

Eddie Lincoln, Medalist, Faces Franny Galvin in Cohasset Play

By Bill Grimes

Although Howard M. B[illegible] Jr., of the club, did not defend his title, the championship flight of the South Shore championship, which started match play this morning at the Cohasset Country Club, represents the strength of that district, and the tournament promises to be one of the most bitterly contested in the annals of the event.

With four representatives, Hatherly Country Club has hopes of annexing the title, especially in view of the fact that it has two players in each half of the draw.

The Galvin brothers, [illegible] Jr. and Franny, are in the upper bracket with Charlie Brickley, runner up to Eddie Lincoln, Cohasset, the medalist of the qualifying round, and R. F. Callawalader in the lower half.

LINCOLN 74, BUCKLEY 76

Lincoln [illegible] rounds to be the medalist. He was out in 38, one over par, and came home in 36 for a fine 74, which nipped Brickley by two strokes.

Win Trowbridge, who for years has been a serious threat in South Shore championships, is playing young Bob Ryan of Scituate. Ryan was a semi-finalist in the recent juniors at W[illegible]. Trowbridge was the runner-up to B[illegible] a year ago and it required a 21 hole finals to decide the championship.

There is no player in the championship flight with a better knowledge, and a sounder game than Trowbridge and he is an odds-on favorite to carry home the gonfalon.

Lincoln is playing Franny Galvin and this match should prove [illegible] [illegible] after starting with a six [illegible] playing the best golf of his [illegible] while Lincoln with the confidence acquired from his one over par round yesterday will give the younger Galvin brother a tussle, to say the least.

SHEA, WILSON, CLUBMATES

John Slattery is batting his old opponent Dick Woodsum, South Shore, and immediately trailing this match are two more buddies, 'Bud' Galvin and Art Rogers.

With all due respect to the other matches the Dan Shea Jr.-Bunny Wilson tilt is the highlight of the first round. Wilson was just under the qualifying wire due to six balls out of bounds at the 7th and 8th holes, but Shea, who is the stylist of the South Shore golfing fraternity, was in with strokes to spare.

Shea and Wilson are both members of the South Shore Country Club, and for more than a year there has been much wrangling as to which is the better golfer.

H. N. Norton, Marshfield, drew Brickley as his first round opponent and his clubmate, L. E. Wright, was out with Dick Callawallader, Hatherly.

Dick Mullowney, a well known junior a few years back and now a resident of Washington, D. C., who is vacationing at Duxbury, is paired with the winner of the four-man-for-one-place play off.

LOTT, STOEFEN GAIN FINAL IN DOUBLES

By Universal Service

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—For the fifth time since 1927 George Lott will [illegible] the final round of the national doubles championships tomorrow.

With Lester Stoefen he defeated Gregory Mangin, of New York, and Berkeley Bell, of Texas, 10—8, 6—1, 7—5, in a brilliant semifinal, in which, as usual, he was the commanding figure on the court.

The titleholders were to meet the winners of the other semifinal between Roderick Menzel, the Czech champion, and Vernon Kirby, of South Africa, who were to face Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, the champions of 1931, today.

Lott's variety of strokes and his accurate driving and smashing made up for a partner who was uncertain off the ground and liable to lapse at the net.

Lucky Zach Taylor

Blind One Shot Hole at Franklin Park Ready to Test Acers in Annual Links Classic

The six-year-old daughter of War Shot and Awapuhi hung right on the money in her last start and finished second to Fred Almy. That was her first start since a short letup and she was evidently dead short.

With that effort under her belt, Moane Keala should experience little difficulty in landing in the winner's circle. Howard Hughes rides.

FIRST RACE

Golden Time, Cardamon, Hot Griddle

If morning trials may be taken as a true criterion, GOLDEN TIME should never leave this issue in doubt. The chestnut daughter displayed one of the fastest trials shown by any thoroughbred last Sunday when she worked a half mile in .47.2 from the barrier. That sort of running should make her an easy winner in this affair. CARDAMON placed to Liebchen in her debut over this course and looms as the main danger. HOT GRIDDLE was only a half length in back of Cardamon in that affair and figures next best.

SECOND RACE

Hobnail, Lerack, Grace Blotter

HOBNAIL has been away since the early stages of the meeting, but he has been working in a manner that would suggest a good effort the first time out. In that last outing the John P. Grier colt was heavily backed in the wagering, but finished third behind Polyfon and Grace Blotter. Prior to that race he won as his rider pleased over Texas Tommy and that sort at Rockingham. LERACK evidently didn't like the footing or M. Griffin couldn't do him justice in his last outing. At any rate that race was too poor to be true and should be thrown out. In his two previous outings he finished second on both occasions. GRACE BLOTTER has been running to the hickory in most of her starts and must be accorded the next best figures.

THIRD RACE

Moane Keala, Cantersine, Ayston

MOANE KEALA will have CANTERSINE to drub for main honors in this affair. The latter was only a nose in back of the top one at the finish of their last meeting. AYSTON beat Fred Almy away off in his last race. However, Fred Almy received a very odorous ride in that race. At any rate, Ayston's race was good enough to give him the next best rating.

FOURTH RACE

Fake, Happy Helen, Jessie D M

I know it's asking a lot of FAKE to drub this sort but I fully believe she is capable of turning the trick. In her only outing over this course, she drubbed Unlawful and Synod. Since then she has trained in brilliant fashion. Her fra. was a handy six furlongs in 1.13 3-5. HAPPY HELEN has won her last two in brilliant fashion and should prove the more troublesome of the contenders. JESSIE D M won over Morning Mail and HAPPY HELEN in her last race, but she is picking up eight pounds off that race. Mayhap, the Master Charlie filly won't relish that added impost.

FIFTH RACE

Vicar, Khamseen, Saint

VICAR strikes me as having a decided edge in this affair, despite her poor showing in the Fort Adams Claiming Stakes. Surely there is nothing as formidable in this race as those that finished in front of her in that last effort. A breezing half mile in .49 indicates that she holds all of her speed. KHAMSEEN was racing far over his head in his last two outings and those efforts may be discarded. Prior to that effort, however, the Sir Greysteel colt drubbed Cutie Face and other speedsters at six furlongs. He will be all dangerous providing he runs back to that race. SAINT is from the J. D. Hertz stable and is evidently held in high regard by that outfit as he has never run in a claiming race.

SIXTH RACE

Moralist, Forewarned, Xandra

MORALIST, favored by an outside post position and a decided edge in class, should take the front and never be headed in this affair. Last out he set a blistering pace for over a mile to Burning Up and that sort. He will be meeting nothing quite as formidable as the latter in this race. Moreover, he will be suited by any sort of a track. FOREWARNED has been close up to some fair ones and figures next best. XANDRA'S best races are in the mud, but with nothing much left in the race, she should have little trouble in saving the short award.

SEVENTH RACE

Polly Cee, Manager Bill, Boy Crazy

POLLY CEE is as honest as they come. The Moonraker filly is usually there or thereabouts at the finish and can be depended upon to put forth her best effort. Last out, she was beaten only a neck by Nancy C. MANAGER BILL finished a length in back of the top one in that affair and should furnish the contention in this race.

HEMSLEY AND HORNSBY SPLIT

By Associated Press

St. Louis, Aug. 24—Regardless of the fact the St. Louis Browns are in the midst of a road trip, "Rollicking Rollie" Hemsley, first-string catcher, opened a "home stand" today that will last at least a week.

Hemsley was issued a ticket to St. Louis and an indefinite suspension yesterday by Rogers Hornsby after the catcher ran afoul the law in Philadelphia.

The catcher, according to reports, undertook to swing on Officer Frank Doyle in Philadelphia early yesterday morning. He missed but the officer retaliated with better results and locked Hemsley up on a drunkenness charge. He was released by a magistrate after the appearance of Hornsby.

The manager announced the suspension, which means Rollie will go payless until he gets the matter straightened out.

"I wouldn't have minded but for his getting into print and bringing a lot of unpleasant publicity to the game and himself," Hornsby said. "He has been offending in this way several times. I'm tired of overlooking these things. We'll have to talk it over when we get back home in about six days."

Allen, McCarthy to Meet Tonight

Everything is set and ready for the renewal of the feud between Harry Allen of Brockton and Jack McCarthy of Roxbury, and their meeting at Highland Park, Avon, tonight, should result in one of the bitterest battles in many months.

Neither Allen nor McCarthy make any claims to being a fancy boxer. Both depend upon the well known haymaker to bring home the bacon.

Allen has stopped McCarthy in a previous bout, and likewise McCarthy has stopped Allen.

PRO GRIDIRON SEASON OPENS SEPT. 9

By Associated Press

New York, Aug. 24—The National Professional Football League will open its 1934 season Sunday, Sept. 9, with a single game between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh, President Joe F. Carr of Columbus, O., announced today.

The regular season will close Sunday, Dec. 2, after which the winners of the western and eastern sectional titles will meet Sunday, Dec. 9, in the home field of the eastern titleholder, for the Ed Thorp Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the league championship.

A balanced schedule will be played this year for the first time since the loop was organized. The program calls for each team to meet each team in its own section in a home and home series, thus providing for eight games against sectional rivals.

Oct. 3 (night)—New York at Pittsburgh.

Oct. 7—New York at Boston; Pittsburgh at Philadelphia; Cardinals at Cincinnati, Detroit at Green Bay, Bears at Brooklyn.

Oct. 10 (night)—Bears at Pittsburgh.

Oct. 14—Brooklyn at New York, Detroit at Philadelphia, Cincinnati at Green Bay, Cardinals at Bears; Pittsburgh at Boston.

Oct. 17 (night)—Boston at Detroit.

Oct. 21—Brooklyn at Detroit; Philadelphia at Boston, Pittsburgh at New York, Cardinals at Green Bay, Cincinnati at Bears.

Oct. 28—Philadelphia at New York; Cardinals at Boston, Detroit at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn, Green Bay at Bears.

Nov. 4—New York at Bears, Green Bay at Boston; Cincinnati at Philadelphia, Cardinals at Brooklyn, Pittsburgh at Detroit.

Nov. 11—Green Bay at New York, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, Bears at Boston, Brooklyn at Philadelphia; Detroit at Cardinals.

Nov. 18—Green Bay at Cardinals; Cincinnati at Detroit; Boston at Philadelphia, Bears at New York; Brooklyn at Pittsburgh.

Nov. 25—Boston at New York; Philadelphia at Brooklyn, Bears at Cardinals, Green Bay at Detroit.

Nov. 29—New York at Brooklyn; Bears at Detroit.

Dec. 2—Green Bay at Cincinnati; Brooklyn at Boston; New York at Philadelphia; Detroit at Bears.

Stewards Wear Blinders

Can't See Tom King Commit Nasty Foul in First Race

Race Track Vigilantes May Take Matter in Own Hands

By Dave Egan

Narragansett, R. I., Aug. 24—It had always been a private unexpressed opinion of the colonel that only horses wore blinders.

It came as something of a surprise yesterday to learn that the stewards at this track also wear blinders, dark glasses and apparently have either cinders or stone quarries in their eyes.

This department does not pose as an expert in equine matters, and when, with its own hand, it can detect a foul which happens squarely in front of the grandstand, not 20 yards away from the stewards' stand, it seems plausible to suspect that the gentlemen who judge the races are afflicted with astigmatism.

Yesterday, in the first race, Tommy King, on J. D. Mikel's Flag Time, cut [illegible] in front of Troboy, with Frankie Munden up, as they came [illegible]. He [illegible] in front of Troboy so fiercely and suddenly that Munden had to pull up his horse, in order to avert an accident.

Why Suspend Peters and Not King?

Munden, whose horse had finished fourth, claimed a foul. The stewards scratched their heads. They stroked their chops. They assumed a variety of judicial poses that would have done high credit to the United States Supreme Court. And then they did not allow the claim of foul.

Judge George Brown, Jr., in the stewards' stand, asked Munden why he came up there. I get this, not from Munden, but from a source which is absolutely authoritative. And so I ask why employ judges who are paid probably $100 a day when they can't see a foul which is committed under their noses?

Mr. Dave Wilson, who is peering over my shoulder as I pound this out, states that my last sentence is too long. It should read, according to Mr. Wilson: "and so I ask why employ judges who are paid probably $100 a day when they can't see?"

The colonel had no wager on the race, and is not a perpetual squawker and beefer. But a large amount of hard-earned money was wagered on the Munden hoss, and the hoss was entitled to third position, in any league in the country.

"They have the jockeys in the room now giving them the devil," said a track official to me.

All of which does not help those who had bet on Troboy to show.

Why Suspend Hughes and Not King?

And to add to the gayety of nations, the stewards announced later in the afternoon that Maurice Peters had been suspended for the remainder of the meeting, for rough riding on Meeting Place in the first race. What about King, Mr. Stewards?

Do not think that the pew-holders are not beginning to yodel their feelings. The stewards suddenly came to life in the fifth race and disqualified Crazy Jane, the winner, for almost knocking the Pelican over the fence at the eighth pole.

The clients became real warm over the matter and surrounded the stewards' stand making vulgar noises with their mouths—what our Austen Lake would term barnyard noises—hooting and booing and seething so vigorously that a cordon of police and plainclothesmen was flung around the stand.

Eventually, Hughes, the jockey on Crazy Jane, was suspended for the rest of the meeting.

The betting on the following race fell off with a thull and dickening sud—I mean a dull and sickening thud. Those who have the good of racing at heart and have invested a few million fish should take immediate steps to correct conditions which are prevailing here in the stewards' stand.

In the last 60 races, exactly 12 favorites have won.

FARNSWORTH TO JOIN BOSTON UTILITY

By HUGH F. BRADSHAW

[illegible]

The willingness of volume to contract as share prices fade down from recent tops is one of the better market signals. Further displays of this sort will be welcome. But until the market definitely shows that it is strong enough technically to ease down in a normal way, with no excuse apparent for blind bullishness. It will be remembered that any recovery following a long decline is to be looked on as a technical happening until a subsequent decline fails to penetrate the lows set for the whole movement. An easier market in here will supply the answer.

The acute wage problem which faces railroads is the more easily understood by making comparisons. Using earnings of truck drivers because carriers meet their principal competition from highways, we find a tremendous difference. In freight service the average weekly wage of locomotive engineemen is figured to be about 117 per cent greater than the pay of truck drivers for a longer period of service. In July, 1933, the month for which the Bureau of Labor Statistics publishes its figures for bus drivers' hours and wages, enginemen received hourly compensation 170 greater than bus drivers.

The reason for a cautious attitude at this time is explained by the fact that minor trend barometers are bullish. But longer term indicators as yet remain in a neutral position. Although it must be admitted that this latter development is being taken into consideration in formulating even an embryo buying campaign. For it was not so many sessions ago that long term indices were still pointing downward. Once they come to the mark it will be less difficult to set our general market course.

Wall Streeters More Cheerful but Buying Lags

By WALL STREET SPECTATOR

They don't think that the cautious one will "miss the boat" by waiting a week or so until some of these Washington policies are clarified . . . While statements by Administration stalwarts like Secretary Roper and Donald Richberg regarding profits are reassuring, the conservative section of Wall Street would prefer this to come from the White House itself and point out contradictions between statements and actions in the last year.

SUGGESTS PLAN FOR PAYING WAR DEBTS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Copyright 1934 Universal Service, Inc.

New York, Aug 24—As a purely economic project, payment of the war debts at least in part could be effected without the international transfer of funds.

I recently commented on the suggestion of John M. Morehead that the government sell to American [illegible] against the [illegible] and [illegible] painted [illegible] American securities [illegible] owned by [illegible] mobilized and used [illegible] settlement of the debt [illegible] could be [illegible] their own govern[illegible]

"During the ten years ending in 1931 American tourist expenditures exceeded those of visitors to our country by more than five billion dollars," Mr. Lehman indicated. "This is more than twice the amount we have received during this period from other governments on their debts. During that decade tourist expenditures furnished every dollar of money which was paid to the United States on debt settlements, and also supplied Europe with sufficient credit to purchase products of our farms and factories valued at two and a half billion dollars, and to pay the bills of all European travelers who patronized American hotels and railroads."

Applying his proposal to the British debt situation, Mr. Lehman said:

"Arriving there our tourist secures English currency, limited in amount to the probable needs of his family and himself for the period of his sojourn there.

"When Mr. Smith purchases his travel checks he is in reality paying one thousand dollars to the United States in behalf of Great Britain to be credited upon its war debt. This proxy payment is conditional upon England's honoring his travel order for accommodations in that country or upon its merchant vessels."

Apropos of the timidity of bankers toward all except obviously good commercial loans, an early president of the old Central Trust Company in New York—S. P. Olcott—used to say that he would be satisfied with the business which other institutions reject because of lack of vision, or courage, or lack of proper technique for handling situations. The rejections nowadays doubtless create opportunities for venturesome and courageous lenders but most of this business seems to go by default to governmental lending agencies.

In getting the opinion of chief executives of the great business corporations, which depend on farmer patronage, of the business effects of the drought, I find a growing recognition on their part of the desirability of a balanced economic life based on a parity between agriculture and industry.

In appraising the long-term effects of the drouth, a senior executive of one of the principal packing houses said: "In the long run surpluses and shortages are caused by the ability to produce, and the size of market outlets. The drouth can have no appreciable effect either on our ability to produce or on the available market outlets for farm products. Consequently, it is our feeling that the propective reduction of surpluses due to the drouth may have a decidedly beneficial effect over the next two or three years, but is not a factor from the long-term point of view.

"For the short term, we have found that the American consumer tends to spend about the same proportion of his total income for food each year. In a year of extreme shortage, however, he might be expected to spend somewhat more than the average proportion of his total income for food products. It appears inevitable, therefore, that the short crops and expected short supplies of livestock will result in an advance in the prices of all farm products. In some cases short crops have had a greater total monetary value than large crops and this may be true this year."

Net Earnings of Poor & Co. Given

Poor & Co. reports for six months ended June 30, 1934, net profit of approximately $310,000 after interest, depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal to $1.93 a share on the 160,000 no-par shares of $1.50 cumulative participating class A stock, on which there are accumulated unpaid dividends.

Allowing for only six months' dividend requirements on the class A stock, balance is equal to 52 cents a share on the 362,782 no-par shares of class B stock, excluding 65 shares held in the treasury. In the first half of 1933 the company reported a net loss of $200,176.

By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE

This chart may be regarded as the thrift portrait of the American citizen. It shows the course of total deposits in our mutual savings banks from 1920 to 1934, and the amount per depositor. On [illegible] 1934 there were 13,686,947 depositors who had $9,720,733,072 in our mutual savings banks.

In spite of the new thought regarding the responsibility of the Government for the security and well being of the individual in the future, there still remains a substantial part of the population which believes in relying upon its own efforts and its own foresight in providing for the future. To what extent this instinct for future provision and self-protection will be impaired by the liberal distribution of government relief and by the threat of inflation is an open question.

However, the number of these depositors and the total amount which they have accumulated as a hostage against the future is a measure of the faith which they have that the Government will not deliberately corrupt the standard of payment.

The action of the President in nationalizing silver has again raised the issue of inflation. It may be recalled that the Silver Purchase Act of 1934 requires a foundation for our currency consisting of three parts gold and one part silver. In order to accomplish this purpose, it is necessary for the Treasury to purchase vast quantities of silver. The minimum amount has been estimated at a billion ounces and the maximum at two billion.

Naturally, any purchase of such quantities of the white metal will have a distinct effect upon the market value of silver. Since the government's action, based upon a presumptive social purpose, will be the principal reason for bringing about a rise in the value of silver the government argues that such a rise properly belongs to it rather than to the speculators who happen to be holding the silver. It is in a sense an unearned increment of value which ordinarily would accrue to the speculators and which the government, by exercising its power of "eminent domain" has acquired for itself.

The question which disturbs the savings depositor and the conservative relates to the future conduct of the Government. Will it increase the mint value of silver in order to raise this increment which it has acquired, or will it follow a conservative course and simply issue currency against the purchase price of the silver? Its answer to this question, to be given in the months to come, will definitely indicate the future course of the Government regarding inflation.

Live News of Today's Market Leaders

Mild influence exerted on the market by the Treasury denial of rumors of a change in gold policy scarcely supported the widely held theory that the late activity and strength grew out of such talk. The best proof of the fact that some other forces are behind the better sentiment is found in the character of issues most prominent among the leaders. Railroads, for example, have enjoyed the greatest group strength this week. Even the most bullish sources on the rails are ready to admit that transportation shares would scarcely stand to profit from inflation because their rates are fixed and their expense could mount rapidly from increased material and labor costs. Curiously enough, too, public utility shares have also been doing somewhat better and inflation is anything but a bullish argument on that industry.

Hedge Stocks Are Listed

Groups of stocks believed to offer the best hedge against inflation, compiled by a statistical service, include chemicals, food products, metals, office equipment, oils, rubbers, textiles and sugars.

Forecast Small Decline in Freight

Telephone Demand Short Covering

Much of the demand responsible for American Telephone's 4-point rally since the regular dividend was declared a week ago is understood to be short covering by speculators who expected a reduction in the rate last meeting.

The stock is popularly believed to harbor one of the largest short interests among the leading issues, a view partially substantiated by its recent marker performance.

Investment Demand Greater

FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS ARE CONFUSING

By Associated Press

New York, Aug. 24—An Alice-in-Wonderland chess match played with currencies as pawns and gold and silver as the prize, appears to be in progress in the monetary world.

The participants are bankers and governments and petty speculators and they make their moves in New York and Paris and London, and also in Shanghai and Bombay and Cape Town.

Foreign exchange has been by tradition and involved and dim subject to the man-in-the-street, but today its technique is developing so even the expert admits his confusion.

A broad picture of the current effects of exchange and manipulation would show silver moving huge quantities out of Shanghai to London and then to New York, gold leaving on express steamers for delivery in Paris and Brussels, gold working its way from India and South Africa to London, and thence to Europe. And the next move, according to bankers, will be a flow of gold to London from Paris.

The key to this maze of metal transfers seems to be the fact that the United States Treasury has set out to buy silver in the world markets to satisfy the requirements of recent Washington legislation.

The Treasury's buying plan has had two direct effects, bankers say. In the first place, China began to send silver to London, with the banks in Shanghai doing the selling, in order to meet the American demand for the white metal.

Secondly, holders of gold in India and South Africa—either hoarders or mining interests, whence comes the main supply of gold available for auction in London—decided that America was about to enter a period of inflation which would drive the world price of gold higher. Instead of selling their gold in London, they held it back.

With less gold coming to London and less foreign demand for pounds to buy that gold, the British exchange began to depreciate in terms of French francs. Since the New York-London rate was being held steady by American buying for silver purchases, the franc gained also against the dollar.

Then it was that gold was transferred from New York to Paris and Brussels. The next step, it is said, will be for gold to leave Paris, for movement across the channel by airplane and boat to London.

This will happen when, as is now expected, the London price for gold is forced above the Paris equivalent by the scarcity of offerings. The price has gone above the New York equivalent of $35 a fine ounce.

Some imaginative foreign exchange quarters have even suggested that the British monetary authorities with this strategy in view went so far as to advise banks in India and South Africa that gold be held back.

At any rate, the indicated net result of all this wild scramble is for the United States to acquire a lot of silver in return for an equally substantial quantity of gold. It was a striking coincidence that the first arrivals of treasury silver should reach New York on the very day of the first big gold withdrawals.

Banking Needs to Be Discussed at Meeting of Heads

Open critisim of banks, banking and finance in response to the public's demand for information is being discussed at the financial advertisers' 19th annual convention opening at the Hotel Statler in Buffalo September 10.

Criticisms and suggestions from business men and newspaper men representnig business and public interest will be presented by Harrison Jones, executive vice-president of the Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, who will speak on "What the Average Man Asks His Bank"; Harry B. Hall, vice-president of the American Appraisal Company, Milwaukee, will talk on the position of the business man in relation to his bank.

The Keynote of belief will be sounded at the first session by Lewis G. Harriman, president, Manufacteurs and Traders Trust Company, Buffalo, who will speak on "I Believe in Public Spirited Banking," and by Fred N. Shepherd, executive manager of the American Bankers Association, who will address the assembly on "I Believe in a Bank Spirited Public."

Further general sessions will offer opportunity for banking interests to reply to the criticisms and recommendations offered by previous speakers. At these sessions the speakers will be James P. Warburg, vice-chairman of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, New York; Alex Osborn, vice-president, Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, and Roy L. Stone, vice-president, First Wisconsin National Bank.

In addition to the general sessions, opportunity will be afforded delegates to consider in detail methods of presentation of the facts which the public wants on trust development, new business development, savings, advertising technique, and public relations. A special feature of the convention will be a digest of the deliberations of these special sessions which will be presented at the final business meeting of the convention.

North American Pays 12 1-2 Cents

New York, Aug 24 (AP) Directors of the North American Company declared a dividend of 12½ cents in cash and 1 per cent in stock on the common stock. Like payments were ordered in the two previous quarters.

The board also declared the usual quarterly disbursement of 75 cents on the preferred stock. All of the dividends are payable October 1 to stock of record September 5.

Stock Market Time Table

10-11 A firm tone marked first hour dealings which were featureless except for a light flurry in utilities which moved fractionally higher. Trading was dull, volume approximated 160,000 shares.

BUSINESS MEN INTEND TO SPEAK OUT

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

They have become so alarmed over the way things are going and threatening to go that, as one of them told me yesterday, "We feel compelled, regardless of political considerations, to stick out our chins."

Responsible business and other leaders, Democratic and Republican, are organizing the American Liberty League for the avowed purpose of safeguarding American institutions, protecting property, preserving individual liberty and encouraging individual initiative and enterprise.

This column has repeatedly urged men of affairs, men responsible for filling pay envelopes to cease shivering over fears of being "cracked down on" and to voice their sincere sentiments. Heretofore, timidity has ruled. Apparently business and industry have now resolved to become articulate.

The new organization, which hopes to enroll millions of members, starts off with an executive committee including such stalwart Democrats as ex-Governar Alfred E. Smith, ex-Presidential candidate John W. Davis, John J. Raskob, and such Republicans as ex-Governor Nathan L. Miller of New York and Representative James W. Wadsworth of New York. The chairman is Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee.

A prime mover in the organization of the American Liberty League is Edward F. Hutton, chairman of the General Foods Corporation, who strove two years ago to organize a nation federation of business and who, as a very large employer and as trustee for many thousands of stockholders, keenly feels that business leaders carry serious responsibilities as citizens.

I sought out Mr. Hutton yesterday, and not in eighteen months have I found any business leader ready to talk so outspokenly.

"I am taking a very active interest," he said, "in the organizing of the American Liberty League because I believe the time has arrived when the men heading up the industrial activity of this country must go a step farther than merely assuming their responsibility of management and must assume their obligation in government. They must strive not merely to increase employment, but to protect the rights and interests of the white collar brigade, the stockholders and bondholders.

"The vast unorganized public has been without industrial leadership. Industry has not been vocal. We have listened to allegations by some of our senators and congressmen that big business and, in fact, all business is dishonest. By the acts of a few, business as a whole has been condemned. The responsibility for the acts of these few should not be placed on the vast majority who are of unquestioned honesty.

"Business has had nothing but a platform of silence. As a result, we have been adjudged guilty.

McKesson Sales Show Increase

McKesson & Robbins, Inc., drug manufacturers and distributors, report net sales of $8,555,829 for July, 1934, as compared with $8,178,903 reported for July, 1933, an increase of $376,926, or 4.61 per cent.

Sales for the first seven months of the current year aggregated $71,159,069, as compared with $57,053,692 reported for the corresponding period last year, an increase of $14,105,376, or 24.72 per cent.

SHARE PRICES EASY IN DULL TRADING

RAILS SLUGGISH

In the Utilities a fair demand developed for Columbia Gas, United Corp. and American Water Works and gains ran to a point.

General Motors and Chrysler were steady.

BUSINESS GAINS

Dun & Bradstreet's weekly review reported trade in many divisions had taken a turn for the better this week. It estimated gains in retail trade ranged from 3 to 5 per cent over the preceding week.

"There was a strong revival of sentiment regarding a more vigorous expansion of fall business than appeared to be in prospect a month ago," it commented.

Of outstanding interest in weekly banking statistics was a further decline, the seventh consecutive drop, in brokers' loans, which fell $11,000,000 to $810,000,000.

The extent of wholesale commodity price appreciation last month was disclosed in the July index of the Bureau of Labor statistics. It increased three-tenth of one per cent to 74.8, the highest since April, 1931.

The British pound opened here at $5.07, off 1½ cents. The franc was .00¼ lower at 6.69⅝.

CURB MARKET IS HIGHER

By International News Service

American Gas and Electric was taken in hand in the power and light group and marked up to 24, up almost a point net. Electric Bond and Share, after opening at 11½, rallied to 12¼, up ⅜ net. American Light and Traction was fractionally higher at 12, and Columbia Gas and Electric preferred moved up ½ to 72 in the senior list.

Certificates Are Sold by Bankers

The group of Philadelphia bankers who were awarded the block of $1,204,000 Lehigh & New England Railroad Company Equipment Trust Certificates by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced today that substantially all of the certificates have been subscribed for.

The group was headed by Stroud & Company, Inc., and included E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., Janney & Co., and Edward Lowber Stokes & Co.

This is the first public re-sale of any of the ten blocks of securities, totaling $4,688,000, awarded to bidders by the R. F. C. as the first step in the program to create a revolving fund for the Public Works Administration, the $1,204,000 of Lehigh & New England certificates constituting the largest block awarded.

Hydro-Electric Earnings Given

International Hydro-Electric System reports that consolidated total revenue in the second quarter of this year was $15,423,458 compared with $14,847,208 in the second quarter of last year, and that net revenue, including other income, before charges was $8,337,246 against $8,410,197.

After deducting all charges, including depreciation, earnings in the second quarter of this year available for dividends on the preferred and class A stocks of the system were $254,057 compared with $297,638 in the corresponding quarter of last year.

Crude Rubber Steady

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—Crude Rubber futures opened barely steady, 10 to 16 lower. Sept. 15.59-62; Oct. unquoted; Dec. 16.06-07; Jan. 16.15-17.

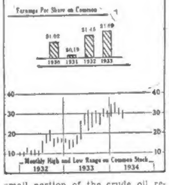
Atlantic Refining Co. in Better Position

Analysis Prepared by the Fitch Investors' Service

Although 1934 first quarter earnings of 23 cents per share were somewhat below general expectations, greater part of the company's business will be forthcoming in the second and third quarters. The past winter months were intensely cold in the territory served, and this hurt gasoline sales.

PRICE SITUATION IMPROVED

With the menace of crude oil overproduction removed by federal and State restriction of allowable output to the approximate requirements of the refining industry, prices for crude have been stabilized, while vicious trade practices and unfair competition in the marketing of refined products has been checked through the operation of the petroleum code. Practical elimination of disastrous gasoline price-wars and necessity for inventory write-down presents a bright future earnings prospect for well-situated oil companies such as Atlantic Refining.



Company is a leading refiner of petroleum, with extensive marketing facilities in Pennsylvania and other Atlantic seaboard States. Its producing properties in Texas and nearby States and Venezuela provide only a small portion of the crude oil refined, the major part being purchased. Substantial additional producing properties are being added in Texas.

EARNINGS RECORD SATISFACTORY

Although price levels in 1933 were the lowest for any year of the post-war period, as was the margin between the cost of crude oil and the realization from products, Atlantic Refining made further progress toward recovery of former earnings power. Despite the generally unfavorable conditions prevailing in the first half of the year, company reported net equal to $1.97 a common share for 1933, compared with $1.45 for 1932, and $0.19 for 1931. At the same time financial position was considerably strengthened by a notable gain in cash assets.

Capitalization consists of funded debt represented by $14,000,000 debenture 5 per cent bonds, due 1937, and purchase obligations of $46,793 and 2,665,234 shares of common stock of $25 par.

Financial condition as of December 31, 1933, was strong, marketable securities alone increased 43 per cent over a year before and were more than twice total current liabilities.

Survey of Wage Earners

The total number of wage earners employed in 1555 manufacturing establishments covered by reports filed with the Massachusetts State Department of Labor & Industries in connection with a monthly survey of employment was 223,934 for the week ending July 15, a decrease of 5668 or 2.5 per cent when compared with the number employed, 229,602, during the corresponding week in June.

The amount of the combined weekly payrolls was $4,255,324 for the same week in July, a decrease of $55,542, or 1.3 per cent from the amount, $4,310,866, for the corresponding June week.

Dexter Elected Director

William Dexter has been elected a director of the Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance Co., suceeding his father, Philip Dexter, who died last month. William Dexter was formerly a vice-president of Massachusetts Hospital Life, and is a director or trustee of a dozen or more local companies.

North American Pays

North American Co. declared a dividend of 12½ cents in cash and 1 per cent in stock on the common and the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the preferred stock, both payable October 1 to stock of record September 5.

Similar payments were made on the common in two previous quarters.

Kansas Gas & Light Earnings

For 12 months ended July 31, 1934, Kansas Gas & Electric Co. reports net income of $864,928 after taxes, interest, depreciation, etc., against $940,308 in 12 months ended July 31, 1933.

STATE STREET SIDELIGHTS

E. A. Pierce & Co.—We think the market has not completed the advance and believe that the ability of the important averages to negotiate difficult resistance levels was of more than temporary significance.

Clark, Childs & Keech—Technical factors as well as other considerations indicate that the long side of the market is the correct one to follow at this time.

Hornblower & Weeks—With minor technical indications still pointing to a nearby resumption of the advance, we will want to follow the line of least resistance, just s olong as it continues in an upward direction.

Paine, Webber & Co.—Would expect the market as a whole to continue to meet good support on any possible further small declines and also believe the highs of yesterday and Wednesday will shortly be exceeded.

Cotton Quiet in Liverpool Market

Liverpool, Aug. 24 (INS)—Spots opened quiet on the Liverpool cotton market today. Prices were steady and receipts totaled 6000 bales, of which 800 were American.

Quiet Dealings in Wool Goods

New York, Aug. 24—Wool goods business, says the New York wool top exchange service, continued quet last week, except for scattered sales of men's suitings and women's cloakings for spot and nearby delivery. It is estimated that 180 mills are inactive at the present time, and according to the service

"agitation for an adoption of the single 40-hour week is growing but is expected to meet with opposition."

Boston Terminal Co. to Retire Bonds

In a procedure brought by the Old Colony Trust Co. as trustee for bonds issued by the Boston Terminal Co., an interlocutory decree has been agreed to by the parties and approved by Judge Charles H. Donahue in the Supreme Court whereby the trustee is authorized to retire $500,000 face value of 3½ per cent bonds.

The trustee received $1,050,000 from the Federal Government as the result of the Government's taking by condemnation proceedings part of the Terminal Company's property for its new parcel post station, and by decrees of the court the trustee has already paid $157,057 to the Terminal Company for cost of additions and betterments and from balance of $892,943 is now authorized to spend $500,000 to retire 3½ per cent bonds, payment to be made by September 13, and to hold $200,000 of the remainder in cash or government securities.

It is authorized from the balance of $192,943 to pay not more than $125,000 to the Terminal Company for providing service for the new building and for placing tracks 22 and 27 in condition for use. It is also authorized to pay out some of the balance for betterments and improvements on authority of the Department of Public Utilities.

The trust company asked for tenders from holders of the bonds and received no bids for the 4 per cent bonds, but did get offers on the 3½ per cent bonds for a total of $1,714,000. Prices ranged from 97 to 100. The Suffolk Savings Bank offered to sell $400,000 at 98 and $300,000 at 99⅝. The First Boston Corp. offered to sell $116,000 at various prices from 99 up.

Huge Steel Scrap Order

Luria Bros. & Co., scrap dealers, have purchased 70,000 tons of heavy steel scrap, of which some 50,000 tons is of steel-making grade, from Southern Railway. This is one of the largest scrap transactions on record. A large part of the heavy melting grade probably will be exported.

Export trade along the eastern seaboard continues active, but, while Japan is taking good shipments, it is displaying less interest in new commitments due to a declining steel operating rate. However, Europe continues to buy though keeping an eye open for bargains.

Foreign demand has helped sustain prices along the Atlantic Coast and to prevent distress material from appearing.

Ford Orders Strip Mill

Ford Motor Co. has awarded a contract to the United Engineering & Foundry Co. for an 84-inch cold strip mill costing $400,000.

The mill to be built here will produce wide coldroled strip up to 78 inches in width. Work will be started on the new mill in about 30 days after specifications have been completed.

The mill will be shipped to the River Rouge, Mich., plant of the Ford Co. It will be used to cold roll strip produced on the wide continuous mill now under construction at United Engineering for the motor company.

International Paper Has Net Loss

International Paper and Power Co. reports for the second quarter of this year net loss of $1,062,581 after all charges, including depreciation, compared with net loss of $1,062,581 in second quarter of 1933.

In the first six months of this year net loss was $2,043,556 after all charges, including depreciation against a net loss of $3,774,490 in the first six months a year ago.

London Packing Pays Extra

London Packing Co. declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share and regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share on capital stock, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 14.

In preceding two quarters extras of 12½ cents a share was paid, while on Jan. 2 an extra of 25 cents was disbursed, along with a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, the rate paid before the present 37½ cents quarterly dividend was initiated.

Babcock & Wilcox Pays 10 Cents

BOND MARKET IS IRREGULAR

By International News Service

New York, Aug. 24—A somewhat reactionary tone prevailed in the bond market during teb early trading today.

The irregular tone appeared to be due to a fair amount of profit taking rather than to any aggressive selling or liquidation movement.

Second grade rails, the trading favorites since the onset of the recovery, lost fractionally. Chicago & Northwestern convertible 4¾s were down ⅜ to 29¾, St. Paul 5s ⅜ to 30⅞ and St. Paul adjustment ½ to 9.

Industrial bonds displayed a similar tendency. Shell Pipe Line 5s sold down ⅛ to 100½, while the International Telephone 5½s were unchanged at 59½.

United States governments turned moderately easier following yesterday's rally. Treasury 3¼s lost 3-32 at 103.25, the Treasury 4¼s 2-32 to 111.30, while the Home Owners Loan 3s were unchanged at 98.3.

Member Reserves Touch New Peak

Anew peak for member bank reserve balances, a substantial increase in excess reserves by New York City reporting member banks, and further moderate "direct loans" under the Loans to Industy Act were revealed in weekly Federal Reserve statements.

Reserve balances of member bankts hit a new high at $4,072,321,000, up $8,000,000 from previous week. Excess reserves of New York City reporting member banks moved rather sharply higher to around $623,000,000 August 22, a gain of $40,000,000 over previous week.

Brokers' Loans Down $11,000,000

Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York city decreased $11,000,000 during the week ended August 22 to $810,000,000.

Dollar Unchanged in Paris Closing

Paris, Aug. 24 (AP)—The United States dollar closed unchanged today at its overnight rate of 14.9375 francs (6.894 cents) to the franc. The opening was at 14.94 francs (6.693 cents).

PREMIERE OF "STOWAWAY" RADIO DRAMA FEATURE

Three-Act First Nighter Play on Air

By N. F. T.

One of the newer type of complete comedy-drama presentations will be launched into the loudspeaker realm from coast to coast (WEEI) this evening at 10 o'clock. It's the "First Nighter" program feature and called "Stowaway" as recently written especially for sound sanctum production.

June Meredith

An elaborate setting of realistic effects will lend action to the above plot, a story dealing with the adventures of a beautiful girl discovered in hiding aboard a transatlantic liner. This three act "Little Theatre Off Times Square" offering stars June Meredith, Don Ameche and Cliff Soubier, supported by a cast of Chicago radio players.

PIECES OF THE PAST

Frank Crummit dips his hands into his heavily laden old song files again for his selections during the "Spotlight Revue" studio show tonight (WNAC) also when 10 o'clock rolls around. Frank found "Smiles" and "You Can't Play Every Instrument in the Band" so that's what to expect from him. Then too, there's "Takes Me Out to The Ball Game" thrown in for good "mike" measure. Everett Marshall chooses "Only a Rose" and "De Glory Road" as his brace of baritone solos. Yes, indeed, "Stoopnagle and Bud" are still in there clowning.

* * *

As the 8:30 to 9 o'clock "Court of Human Relations" theme (WNAC), listeners are afforded "When Love Wasn't Enough," and the air audience is the jury. These weekly impressions have succeeded in pulling fan mail aplenty from scores of program patrons who do not generally write letters regarding air attractions.

WELCOME OUT WEST

That half hour of "California Melodies" originating at KHJ in Los Angeles this evening brings the voice of Welcome Lewis into Eastern air channels (WNAC) once more. Meaning from 9 until 9:30 p. m.

Admirers of the "nasty man" mimic, Joe Penner, are writing to inquire when to figure on hearing the funny fellow back in the network broadcasting picture. Oct. 7 is the date. Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard also return with Joe on that date. It is likewise rumored strongly that an entirely different type of nonsense will occupy the self-styled comedian through his 1934-35 series.

NEW SUIT TESTS MILK LICENSE

In the second milk case here under the terms of the AAA, Guy B. Chaloner of Beverly has been named defendant in a bill in equity to restrain him from continuing in business without a license.

United States District Attorney Francis J. W. Ford filed the bill in Federal court. Chaloner's license was suspended in July for failure to comply with AAA requirements. The case will be heard before Judge Hugh D. McLellan on September 11.

A South Weymouth dairy farmer, Edward M. Dwyer, has already been enjoined from dealing in any milk or cream coming from out of state.

Twins Come Twice in Ohio Family

Columbus, O., Aug. 24—The four Kemp youngsters have managed to get along without undue excitement over the Dionne quintuplets. Frederick and Mark, twins, were born in January, 1929, and Mary and Francis, also twins, were born in December of the same year. Dr. I. C. Plummer of the Ohio State Department of Health says these children of Mrs. Vincent Kemp of Fairfield County may be the only consecutive twins living in the United States.

Last Rites Planned for Sherburne, Jr.

Funeral services for John H. Sherburne, Jr., 32, attorney, and son of Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne, will be held tomorrow noon at St. Paul's Church, Brookline. Attorney Sherburne died Wednesday at the Charlesgate Hospital. Burial will be in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge.

Everett Police Fear Old Boiler

Because Everett's police station boiler is 31 years old and because 750 feet additional of radiation has been added with the remodelling of the police station, policemen are fearful that an explosion will follow an attempt to start fires.

Aldermen have been asked to appropriate funds for a new boiler but the board does not meet until October 22. Meanwhile the police say they will take chances of freezing rather than of being blown up.

WEDDING STIRS ALL HUNGARY

By Associated Press

Budapest, Aug. 24—Aristocratic Hungary was stirred to romantic depths today by the strange marriage yesterday of Gen. Julius Goemboes, the 48-year-old Premier.

He re-married his first wife, the mother of his three children, after his second wife died.

Everyone thought the country's dictator was so grieved over his second wife's death he never would marry again, but her death rekindled his love for his first wife, who today is 38.

"When I took office as Premier," said General Goemboes, "I said my task was to build a new soul for Hungary. I find today that not only nations but individuals need new souls. That is why I decided to seek again the heart-love and comforting presence of my first wife and our three children."

Revisions, (4) Gravity Tank and Tower at the Danvers State Hospital, P. O. Hathorne Mass., will be received by the Department of Mental Diseases at Room 167, State House, Boston, until 2 o'clock, P. M., daylight saving time, Friday, August 31, 1934, and at that time and place will be publicly opened and read. Bids must be made upon the Department's prescribed special form of contract for projects financed and constructed under the terms of the National Industrial Recovery Act and Chapter 365 of the Acts of 1933, to which is attached and made a part thereof The Special Contract Provisions Revised April 15, 1934, of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and the State Emergency Public Works Commission. Special attention of bidders is called to the prescribed minimum wage rates of $1.20 per hour for skilled labor and $.50 per hour for unskilled labor, and to the special provision as to semi-skilled labor.

Pursuant to Executive Order 6646 dated March 14, 1934, no bid will be considered unless it includes or is accompanied by a certificate (worded in accordance with P.W.A. 61 revised March 19, 1934), duly executed by the bidder.

All bidders shall be required to file with their bids a properly executed certificate of workmen's compensation insurance issued by a company satisfactory to the State Commissioner of Insurance.

Plans, specifications and contract forms may be obtained at Room 315, Ford Building, 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, upon deposit of amounts as follows: (1) Fireproof Stairs, $150; (2) Electric Wiring and Fixtures, $350; (3) Sprinkler System Revisions, $125; (4) Gravity Tank and Tower, $75. Make checks payable to the Department of Mental Diseases. These amounts are to be included in the estimates and all checks but those of the successful bidders will be returned upon return of the plans and specifications. Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the architects, M. A. Dyer Company, 1 Beacon Street, Boston.

Bids must be accompanied by properly certified checks on, or certificates of deposit issued by, a responsible bank or trust company in amounts as follows: (1) Fireproof Stairs, $3000; (2) Electric Wiring and Fixtures, $2500; (3) Sprinkler System Revision, $500; (4) Gravity Tank and Tower, $1000; made payable to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Checks and certificates will be returned after execution of the contract upon demand. A surety bond by an approved surety company will be required from the successful bidder in an amount not less than the full amount of the contract. The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals, or to accept any proposal deemed best for the Commonwealth, and no award can be made without the approval of the State Engineer, P.W.A. and of the State Emergency Public Works Commission.

The local registration office of the National Reemployment Service, from which employee lists for this contract shall be obtained (as required in Article C of the Special Contract Provisions) is Massachusetts State Employment Service, George McLaughlin, Superintendent, Post-Office Building, Lynn.

NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN
FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 1934

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION
BY MORE THAN 80,000

Busy Navy Yards to Build War Craft

RICH in many fine traditions, the U. S. Navy's proudest boast is that a Navy man's word is as good as his bond. This week New Englanders learned that civilians in the Navy Department in Washington live up to the best traditions of the officers and enlisted men.

A month or so ago, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry Roosevelt visited the Charlestown and Portsmouth Navy Yards and promised that they would be kept busy.

Now come orders from Washington bidding the former to build two more destroyers, the latter two more submarines.

This promise kept means work for employes of the two yards until late in 1937. It virtually assures the present personnel of almost 4000 men at the two yards of permanent jobs.

By the time they finish their present production schedules, there should be enough repair work to keep them busy—perhaps even new keels to lay.

Nor were the private shipbuilding plants at Quincy and New London overlooked. They, too, got their quota of new construction. This is a definite contribution to New England's welfare. It is appreciated for that reason.

And also because it means that Columbia intends to rule the waves and not the blue prints. It means that we are not going to be badgered in a world that is thinking more and more of war. It means that we stand ready to protect our returning prosperity, our rights and our honor.

Modest Mickey

Now that Mickey Cochrane and his rampaging Tigers have left town, it may be safe to make a few disparaging remarks about this year's baseball genius—the boy who got his start on the stony old Boston University gridiron behind the billboards of Commonwealth avenue, the place so dear to Austen Lake.

What we want to say is we don't believe a word—well, hardly a word—of the statement that Mickey made here the other day. He said that it was through no fault of his that Detroit is leading the American League pennant race.

He gave the credit to a "fine, fast, young, hustling club." He said he was no miracle manager—just lucky.

False modesty, say we. Mr. Frank Navin, who likes his ball club almost as well as the fine horses in his Grosse Pointe stables, has had many a "fine, fast, young, hustling club." But not since 1909 has one of them crashed to the front.

The reason for Detroit's showing this year is Mickey Cochrane. He may not admit it, but we know it. So do the rest of the fans.

We wish him all luck, and hope that, when Mr. Frank Navin reaps the World Series greenback harvest, he will use some of it to keep Mickey's club "fine, fast, young and hustling." It will have to be if it is to get ahead of our own Red Sox next year.

Trade Has Recovered

International trade is picking up. And the United States is getting a fair share of the business that is developing from more cheerful conditions throughout a world that thought of nothing but its troubles not so long ago.

The list of domestic products that are meeting with an increased demand is a long one and includes a wide variety of items. From insecticides to farm equipment.

We think they like it, and will continue to pile up fresh gains.

Tipsy Pedestrians

Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman says an increase in the number of tipsy pedestrians, who endanger themselves by walking in our streets, has intensified the "automobile" safety problem.

It does not seem fair to place all the blame for injury to a drunken pedestrian on the automobile driver, Mr. Hultman contends.

Past experience has shown that autoists involved in accidents are too commonly charged with being intoxicated—in fact, the first exclamation to be expected from some people when they hear of an accident is: "He must have been drunk!"

Let's hope this idea of blaming everything on liquor doesn't spread to the extent of our thinking all pedestrians injured by autoists were tipsy at the time!

A very large percentage of our population still remains consistently sober. And will continue to do so.

War Lesson a Help

Congressmen may be slow about learning a lesson, such as that of preparedness, taught us by the World War.

But the rum smugglers cannot be accused of backwardness in adapting another lesson of the great conflict to their operations.

Washington officials report the rum runners off the Atlantic coast are resorting to wartime camouflages, the more easily to escape any vigilance on the part of the coast guards.

An advantage of several dollars a gallon rewards them if they get by the tariff and federal tax barriers.

Proper personnel and equipment for the coast guard squadrons are needed to stop the illicit trade and turn tax revenues into the channels that will help law-abiding citizens.

This Is Different

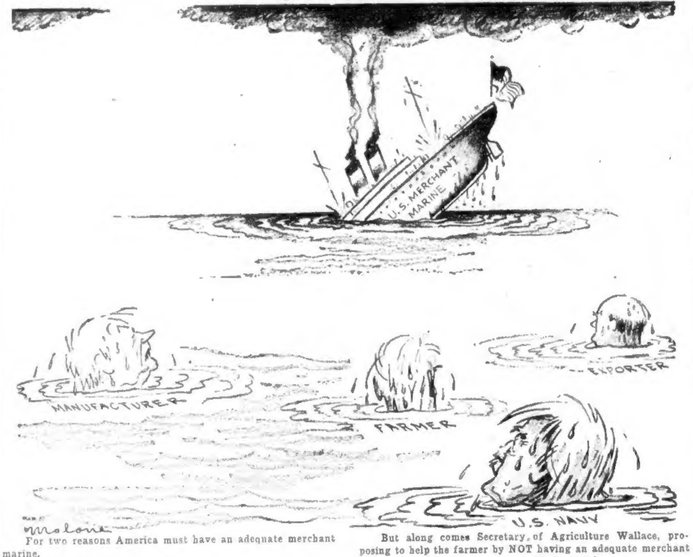
Congressman William P. Connery, Jr., of Lynn, reverses this process. The young chairman of the House Labor Committee is elected to the National House, and then proceeds to spend his nights studying law.

Announcement was made this week that he had passed the District of Columbia bar examinations. Congratulations!

Secretary Wallace's Plan



For two reasons America must have an adequate merchant marine.

In the first place, we need to import rubber and coffee and tin and silk and a lot of other articles that we do not produce.

In exchange we export commodities which other peoples need—products of our mines and our farms and our factories.

Obviously, if we have an insufficient merchant marine our whole industrial economy in time of war or peace is at the mercy of foreign interests.

In the second place, we need, as an essential part of the national defense, a naval auxiliary service—which can be only a merchant marine.

The World War taught us both these lessons and inspired a policy of Federal aid and protection for the merchant marine.

But along comes Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, proposing to help the farmer by NOT having an adequate merchant marine, on which the farmer himself depends!

He argues that if we pay other countries to haul our maritime trade they will gratefully spend more money right back with us.

Of course, they would not. The great shipping countries are actually our competitors in many lines. And, besides, international trade is not merely two-directional. It may be three-directional or more. So our money paid to foreign shipowners wonld go anywhere else in the world, most likely, than back here.

For the sake of a visionary theory, the Wallace plan would impair our national security in time of war and, in peace as well as in war, leave our farmers and manufacturers and other exporters up to their necks in trouble.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

(The following isn't literature. It is part of the homely scene of my daily life. As such, it may not interest you. If not, pass it up, pal, and call it a day. I've done it on a gamble—the chance that it may add a new door for some other little tike, as it has for small Jack and Charles, Louis and Sammy.)

Every night, after they've listened to Amos 'n' Andy or heard a story, had a pillow fight and been mass-scrubbed, I tumble four little lads into bed. But before that, we say thanks. You'd call it prayers. And there's a story behind that—

Elsie Robinson

They're city bred, these four little fellows, all under twelve. Nice breeding, nice homes, nice parents. But—you know how it is these days—there hasn't been much formal religion in their lives.

Plenty of instruction in generosity, gameness, friendliness and honesty, but few of those spiritual rites which were part of every youngster's life forty years ago. So the first night they were together the "thanks" didn't go over so well.

GOOFY GAME

Gosh, what kind of goofy game was this—kneeling down, puttin' your hands together, talking to some guy you couldn't see?

Red-faced, twinkling, wriggling, they peered sheepishly at each other through spread fingers, snickered softly, broke into open giggles. I laughed, too.

Then we decided on a temporary adjournment, piled all together on "Cheeser's" bed, passed around an extra helping of lemon drops, and talked it over.

It wasn't—I fear—a very conventional talk. It would have amazed an orthodox churchman. We interspersed dogma with a discussion of cures for warts, did - horsehairs - honest - turn - to - snakes, did - horned - toads - spit - blood, the time Fat got a bellyache from swiping watermelon, and other quaint biological and sociological phenomena. But out of it all emerged certain conclusions.

There was a Guy who gave you things. Sweller things even than footballs, or automobiles, BB guns, ice cream cones, 'lectric railroads or movin' picture machines.

You couldn't neverever see Him, but He was there, all right. And He was always givin' you things. Not jes' things you could buy, but things even your Mom or Dad couldn't buy. Things like dirt, 'n' water, 'n' sunshine.

And inside things, too. Things you couldn't see. Like wanting to laugh, or not being a cry baby, or not snitching. And things that made you know how to build boats, even if nobody had ever told you. And swell feelings—

GIGGLES STOPPED

The giggles had stopped. The toes had stopped wiggling. Even the lemon drop swashings were subdued. Wide-eyed, they were gazing through a door they had never found before—at a Mystery they had never known existed.

Life, for them, was a 20th century wonder of whirling wheels, roaring rails, glittering counters, generous moms and dads.

So young, so eager, so willing to believe in miracles and marvels! Yet they had been given only a world of material wonders upon which to feed their clamoring imaginations.

Store aisles to the north of them, store aisles to the east and the west and the south of them. Beyond the horizon, nothing!

And now it appeared that store aisles, and the other things one found in stores, were not all. There was a guy . . . a swell guy whom you couldn't neverever see, but who was always there on the job, giving you things. And it wasn't a goofy game to thank a guy like that. Sure you did it!

"Come on Cheeser, I'm going to thank Him first for me hittin' the target best—"

• • •

The lights were out. The rooms were still. I went out and left them with the Guy who was always on the job.

And I wondered what I, and the rest of us, would do if we had to face that Guy ourselves and render an accounting of our handling of these, His little ones?

What have we done to the world He made so glorious, to the minds He made so hungry for the truth?

Liberty Losing Ground

By H. L. Mencken

From the end of the seventeenth century to the outbreak of the World War there was a steady widening of human liberties everywhere.

If the movement may be said to have begun with the adoption of the English bill of rights in 1689, then it lasted precisely 225 years. It was not confined to the United States or to Europe; it extended to all parts of the world, and it affected the most remote and primitive peoples.

But with the outbreak of the war in 1914 it was definitely halted, and now the wind is plainly blowing in the other direction.

The extent to which we have slipped backward in the United States is apparently little realized by most Americans.

They have heard somewhat vaguely about their own bill of rights, and they assume that it is still in force, but the truth is that no less than nine af its ten articles are now virtually obsolete. All nine have been invaded at one time or other by legislative usurption or executive encroachment, and on almost every occasion the courts have refused to intervene.

There was a time when the higher judges spent most of their time telling legislators and bureaucrats what they could not do, but of late they have devoted themselves mainly to finding excuses for what has been done.

PROHIBITION EVILS

A great many bold forays upon the bill of rights were made under cover of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act.

It was quickly found that enforcing prohibition would be impossible so long as the inalienable rights of the citizen were respected, for prohibition was itself a gross invasion of those rights. But the dry fanatics, will all branches of the government under their control, did not let that difficulty stay them.

Instead, they urged the law makers to even more oppressive measures and the prohibition agents to ever more impudent invasions of the bill of rights, and in nearly every case the docile courts tortured both the law and the facts to condone the outrage.

This process did not begin with the "noble experiment;" it began during the war.

Under the influence of the spy mania and other such hysterics, laws were passed that clearly and grossly violated the bill of rights, but in nearly every case the courts hastened to sustain them.

There was, to be sure, a moment of sober second thought when the war was over, and a few of the lost rights were restored. But soon they were flouted again by prohibition, and when prohibition, in its turn, passed out, there began a wholesale invasion of them, in the name of various social and economic experiments, some of them intelligible and some not.

As everyone knows, what is in progress here is also in progress everywhere else, and often in an exaggerated manner.

The peoples of Western Europe enjoyed wide and inalienable liberties before the war, and those liberties were increasing, but now most of them have no more liberty than so many convicts in a House of Correction.

In many countries, once free and civilized, they have even lost the elemental right to vote, to have their say about the reigning politicians, and to petition for a redress of their grievances.

Their only remaining freedom is the poor privilege of obeying and applauding the orders of the mountebanks who have seized dominion over them.

What is to be done about it? There is one way out, and one way only.

"God grants liberty," said Daniel Webster a century ago, "only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it."

The peoples of the Western world, debauched by idiotic phrases, have allowed frauds and fools to make serious inroads upon their most precious heritage, but if they rise in their might and demand the return of what they have lost they will get it back.

It cannot be done all at once, but it can be done.

The time to begin is not tomorrow, or next day, or on the return of "normalcy," but NOW.

Every day there is some fresh encroachment upon the bill of rights, some new outrage upon the free citizen.

Let the next one be challenged the instant it is attempted, and there will be a turn in the tide.

Let the next tin-pot Caesar hear a vociferous no, and the whole race of bogus world-savers will be more careful hereafter.

"They that can give up essential liberty," said Benjamin Franklin, "to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

Once the first goes, the second always follows it, but so long as the first is inviolable, the second remains real.

HOMESICK

"There's nothing I can do," he said.

"Nothing among my remedies
Will wholly put his heart at ease.

"He longs a certain street to see,
A steeple and a maple tree,

"And hurry through an open door

"'Twould end his loss of appetite
If he could dine at home tonight.

"Ten hours he'd spend in slumber deep
If in his own bed he could sleep.

"I can prescribe for him, but still
No druggist can my orders fill.

"Nothing apothecaries sell

Human Side of the News; Cartier Great Hero

By Edwin C. Hill

Four hundred years ago today a young French sea captain, searching for Cathay, set foot on Canada. And this very day at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, that anniversary, of such fascinating significance to our neighbor to the north, is being celebrated by notables from all over the Dominion, and from France as well.

It is something, after all, for a nation to come to its four-hundredth birthday, and sane, sensible, solid Canada takes immense pride in the observance.

For Cartier was the first link in a long chain of heroes, French and English, who made Canada what she is today.

CARTIER'S STORY

Commanded by Francis I to find out what might lie west of Newfoundland and Labrador, the ancient hope still being cherished that still a little to the west was the fabled land of gold and jewels, Cathay, the same will-o'-the-wisp which guided the caravels of Columbus, Jacques Cartier set out from his home village of St. Malo, on April 20, 1534, to venture the perilous western seas.

Sighting Newfoundland, near Cape Bonavista, he followed the coast southward to a point nearly opposite Cape Breton; then turning westward he reached Prince Edward Island and what is now Charlottetown, where the great celebration is being held.

At Cape Gaspe he landed and raised the royal flag of France, the golden lilies on the white field, taking possession of the country, as far west as it might run, in the name of his master, King Francis.

The next year, with another fleet, he came back and sailed up the St. Lawrence. Leaving his ships moored near the Indian village of Stadacona, on the site of modern Quebec, Cartier pushed on into the forest, to the fortified village of Hochelaga at the foot of an imposing hill which the explorer promptly named Mt. Royal. We know it under its French name of Montreal.

GREAT FIGURES FOLLOW

He sailed for home, but came again, for the third time, in 1541, proceeding up the St. Lawrence and fortifying that Stadacona which was to become the great Citadel of Quebec, where Wolfe and Montcalm fought it out eventually, and where the lilies of France were to droop before the lions of England.

T. M. Longstreth gives us fascinating glimpses of this founder of a great nation—of a nation, indeed, which will someday be the very heart and center of the whole British aggregation of nations.

In his most readable book, "Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa," he pictures the strenous Jacques Cartier, with steadfast eyes, and indomitable chin and able hands; who told the Indian chief that his god was a fool, but cured his scurvied men with Indian herbs.

Cartier as the veritable pioneer and paladin of the birth of a nation. After him came many great figures, Champlain of tremendous courage and inextinguishable curiosity, who fought and beat the dreaded Iroquois, but who thereby ruined the hopes of the French in North America, for in defeating the Red men he sowed in them the seeds of incurable hatred, antagonizing them forever, causing them to turn in the end to the British.

Quebec's mountain still proudly raises her head as in Cartier's time, and about Quebec some savor of the First of the Frenchmen still clings. As Justice William Renwick Riddell of the Ontario Court of Appeals tells us, modern Quebec is in all things linked up with her past, the past that begins with Stadacona and Jacques Cartier.

It was two centuries after Cartier that Canada passed, finally into British hands, and now for four centuries after him Britain, France and the United States unite to honor his memory and commemorate the birth of a nation.

From Charlottetown and Prince Edward Island the official party, with pageantry reviving the great event of four centuries ago, will move on to the Bay of Gaspe. Their passengers will land to unveil a great granite cross, a replica in all but size of the cross which Cartier planted upon the very spot when he took possession of the new land in the name of his king.

The next day, Sunday, will be marked by the celebration of a military and a pontifical mass. On August 26th the voyage up the St. Lawrence to Quebec, in the long vanished wake of Cartier, will begin. Three days will be spent in the city Cartier founded, with Governor-General Lord Bessborough, as the principal figure.

Then there will be a day at Three Rivers, where a monument signalizing the enduring persistence of French Christianity will be unveiled. Then on to Montreal for two days, where a bust of Cartier will be unveiled. On again to Ottawa and thence to Toronto for a final pageant depicting Cartier's discovery.

It is interesting to Americans that both French and British participants in the series of ceremonies are to visit Niagara Falls and Fort Niagara which has been reconstructed precisely as it was centuries ago when Champlain built it—Jesuit chapel, casemates, guardhouse and all.

And the thought will come to all present, one surmises, that there has been unbroken peace along the Canadian border for one hundred and twenty years this very year.

Wallace Ship Plan Pleasing Only to the British

By James T. Williams, Jr.

When it comes to giving away other people's property some people seem to be fairly bitten with generosity. Especially is this true of the property of the American people.

President Roosevelt's secretary of agriculture apparently succumbed to generosity of this sort when he declared the other day against any further aid to American shipping. Although we now pay to foreign ship-owners two-thirds of our international freight charges Secretary Wallace apparently thinks this is not enough.

REPEAL WALLACE'S PLAN

He proposed to repeal the established policy of the United States which enables us to keep a toe hold on the business and thereby save ourselves from complete dependence on foreign ships for carrying overseas the products of American agriculture, American commerce and American labor.

Naturally! The attitude of Secretary Wallace delights foreign ship owners, especially the British. It is precisely what British ship-owners and their spokesmen in the British government are urging. Secretary Wallace must have known he was talking their language when he recently proposed to "plough under" the American Merchant Marine by depriving it of any further federal aid.

Where was Secretary Wallace in 1926? Does he not recall that due to the British coal strike British ships customarily carrying the greater part of American cotton and grain exports grew scarce? Has he forgotten how rapidly freight rates advanced? They would have gone skyhigh had not our own shipping board at that time taken a large number of ships out of the laid-up fleet and devoted them to the grain and cotton export trade at reasonable rates. The saving to American farmers that year alone was estimated at several hundred million dollars.

It is easy to understand why British ship owners and the British government, acting in their behalf, are so alarmed over the restoration of an American merchant marine which federal aid makes possible. They know that the American export and import trade is the world's greatest prize and if Amercan ships, in accordance with the mandate of the Congress in the Jones-White Act, should carry "the greatest part of our foreign trade" instead of carrying as they do today only one third of it, the merchant marine of the United States would be a world factor to reckon with.

NO NEW DEAL PLAN

What is not easy to understand, and harder still to explain, is why Secretary Wallace should have selected this particular time to deal another blow to reviving confidence by advocating a reversal of established American policy that would torpedo the merchant marine of his own country and throw thousands of his fellow citizens permanently out of work and add to the hardships of American farmers and American manufacturers and American wage earners. There is no new deal in the Wallace policy but a return of the old and raw deal before the American people determined to build up an independent merchant marine of their own.

Before Secretary Wallace is allowed to go any further with his attack on our merchant marine the American people will naturally wish to know whether he is speaking only for himself or for the administration. Is Secretary Wallace the only member of the cabinet who is in favor of depriving our merchant marine of any further federal aid or is this also the goal toward which Secretary Hull is working in his tariff negotiations with the British and other maritime powers? And where does Secretary Roper stand on this vital question? Is he, too, engaged in the making of plans to "plough under" the merchant marine? Is that why he refuses to go forward with his duties under the Jones-White act and foster the development of our merchant shipping?

SILENT ON SHIP NEEDS

Before Secretary Wallace starts for Europe on "a good will mission," before he commits this government to the sinking of our merchant marine as "a good neighbor" gesture, Secretary Dern and Secretary Swanson should be given a hearing on this subject.

As to the vital need of merchant ships as auxiliaries to the navy and the army Mr. Wallace has thus far been strangely silent. This is perhaps understandable. Every one who knows Mr. Wallace of Iowa knows no foreign fleet could penetrate to the confluence of the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers where Mr. Wallace lives when he is at home and where he penned the editorials calling for unlimited subsidies to Iowa farmers, which started him on his way to a seat in the cabinet.
